Advance residents die in area traffic

Two Advance residents were killed and 32 persons were injured in 13 traffic accidents in the Bootheel area Wednesday and over the Fourth of July holiday, according to the highway patrol.

The double fatality brings the number of traffic deaths to 55 for the year, compared with 51 persons killed in area traffic accidents at this time last year.

Frelan D. Whitaker, 73, and Guy Austin Carlton, 61, of Advance, were killed in a three-car accident at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday one mile west of Advance on Route C.

The accident occurred when Whitaker, driving at a high rate of speed, applied his brakes, lost control of his car, cross the center line and struck an eastbound car driven by Carlton, and then struck another eastbound car driven by Shelby Tidwell, 38 of Advance.

Tidwell suffered minor injuries and was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Carlton was born Sept. 17, 1912 at Advance to the late William and Lucy Scott Carlton. He was the owner of Carlton Small Engine Repair Shop in Advance.

On Oct. 13, 1931, he married Christine Livers, who survives.

Other survivors are one son, Kenneth Carlton of Advance; one daughter, Mrs. Loren Richards of Valmeyer, Ill.; one brother, R. C. Carlton of Advance; three sisters, Vee Weber and Lucille Geile of Gary, Ind.; and Sally Bollinger of Advance; and four grandchildren.

Services are scheduled at 11 a.m. Saturday at Morgan Funeral Home in Advance. The Rev. Frank Heitman of Dexter will officiate.

Burial will be in Baker Cemetery near Lutesville.

Three people were injured in a head-on collision between a pickup truck and an automobile at 4 p.m. Wednesday eight miles east of Bixby on Highway 32.

The patrol said the pick-up truck, driven by Arnold J. Skalak, 62, of Ironton, had passed a slower moving vehicle and pulled back into right lane, when the wheels ran off the right side of the road. Skalak lost control of his truck, crossed the center line and hit a car driven by Marie Scobee, 69, of Hardy, Ark.

Mrs. Scobee received serious injuries, as did a passenger in the car, Everett Scobee, 81, of Hardy. They were taken to St.Marys Hospital in Ironton and then transfered to Missouri Baptist Hospital in St. Louis.

Skalak sought treatment from his own doctor.

At 5:45 p.m. Wednesday, Lowell Ralph Sumpter, 54, of Bismarck received minor injuries when he lost control of his motorcycle as he tried to accelerate fast enough to raise the front wheel off the ground. He sought treatment from his own doctor.

The accident occurred on a road at Clearwater lake seven miles west of Piedmont.

James Mark Faughn, 13, of Poplar Bluff Route Four, received minor injuries at 12:10 p.m. Wednesday when his bicycle was struck by a car driven by Stephen Elliott, 20, of Qulin. The patrol said the accident occurred on Highway 53, two and a half miles south of Poplar Bluff.

The boy was treated for minor injuries at Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

The patrol said Faughn made a left turn from the northbound lane into the path of the car and was struck in the side.

Voters back reform drive with petitions

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — "The people don't want to wait" until the Missouri Legislature does something about closing loopholes in Missouri's election campaign laws, says state Rep. George K. Hoblitzelle, R-Ladue.

Hoblitzelle, Rep. Steve Vossmeyer, D-St. Louis, and other petition workers delivered to the secretary of state Thursday petitions bearing 109,802 signatures collected during the past month.

A little under 65,000 were needed. The petition filed on the 198th anniversary of the United States, were delivered two hours before the 5 p.m. Thursday deadline.

If certified by the secretary of state, the petitions will place on the November ballot a proposed law strengthening campaign reform. Amother other things, it would require that all contributions of $25 or more be made public.

It will take about a month for the secretary of state's office to verify the signatures.

"People wanted to sign the petitions when we told them what they were about," Hoblitzelle said. "This was the time for it."

Frank E. Nutt, chairman for Missourians for Honest Elections, said nine out of 10 persons signed the petitions after being asked to.

Nutt predicted the bill would carry in November by a margin of "three or four to one."

Vossmeyer estimated about 3,000 persons helped on the drive, including Gov. Christopher S. Bond, Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps and two dozen legislators of both parties. He said 2,798 petitions were distributed.

The campaign drive received $13,000 in contributions, mostly in small denominations.

Vossmeyer announced the drive May 31 and it started the following week. He said he had doubts that "we would make it, but we continued working and the response was just great."

Also on the November ballot, if certified by the secretary of state, will be an initiative measure to repeal the Sunday Blue Law ban against sale of non essentials on Sunday.

"There are occasions when people have to go outside the legislative process," Vossmeyer said, "but I think the petition process should be used sparingly.

The long and complicated bill is a combination of proposals in the House last session. A compromise bill failed in the closing minutes of the 1974 session after similar proposals had failed the previous two sessions.

Vossmeyer said if major flaws are found in the bill, the legislature can amend it, but "we can beat down any attempts to kill or gut the law."

Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick has opposed the petition drive because he thinks the legislature should be given another chance and because confidential retainer fees of over $500 would have to be made public by candidates. Doctors and lawyers should not have to disclose such fees, he said.

Kirkpatrick, the state's chief elections officer, has said he will not certify signatures of unregistered voters, but Vossmeyer said, "We attempted to get signatures only from registered voters and that made our work more difficult."

The proposed law would require that all campaign contributions of more than $25 be made public but all contributions must be recorded. It sets up an elections commission to be nominated by the state Supreme Court and named by the governor, to enforce the law.

Candidates could not receive more than $35,000 from their immediate family for each statewide election, or spend more than $35,000 out of their own pocket.

One person or group could not give more than $50,000 in one year to all candidates. One person or committee could not give more than $10,000 to any one candidate for one election.

Labor unions and corporations could not contribute directly. Voluntary organizations made up of union members or businessmen could contribute.

A candidate could not accept any anonymous contribution of more than $5 from one person and anonymous contributions could not total more than $500.

Middleman says profit gnawed away by costs

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The middleman in the chain that brings beef from the ranch to the shopping cart is getting more of your dollar than ever before. But he says his profit is being gnawed away by everything from higher labor costs to more expensive meat saws.

Industry spokesmen say wages and fringe benefits are 10 to 15 per cent higher than last year; the light bill is anywhere from 10 to 60 per cent higher; paper bags and other packaging are up 25 per cent or more; and those meat saws are almost 16 per cent more expensive than they were last year.

Elias Paul is president of John Morrell Co., one of the nation's largest packing houses.

He buys the steer at the feedlot, slaughters it and sells it to the supermarket which sells it to you.

The latest Agriculture Department' marketbasket showed the price of farm-produced food increased three-tenths of 1 per cent in May.

That meant that on an annual basis, it cost $1,733 to feed a hypothetical family of 3.2 persons — up $5 from April.

The government said that if middlemen had passed along the savings resulting from lower prices paid to farmers, the consumer would have saved $34 on an annual basis.

Morrell, a part of United Brands, had 1973 sales of $1.25 billion. Profits, said Paul, were "less than 1 per cent ... The company has never made as much as a cent per pound."

The packer got 7.4 cents of the dollar you spent for beef this April, compared to 6.2 cents a year ago. The industry claims the money is going for increased costs.

Paul said he could not provide specific expense figures for the beginning of 1974 compared to previous years. He said that 75 cents out of every dollar that Morrell spends to produce the meat for shipment to supermarkets goes for the meat itself.

Half of the rest, he said, goes for labor, adding that wages and fringe benefits for some employes have risen $1 an hour in the past year. The average industry wage is $8.29, compared to $7.41 last year.

Paul said earnings for the beginning of 1974 are below last year, but he declined to give the figures.

The animal that Morrell slaughters is sold to supermarkets like Pantry Pride-Food Fair, the nation's fourth-largest chain in terms of sales.

Supermarkets are getting 30.6 cents of your beef dollar, compared to 26.7 cents last year.

Clarence Adamy, head of the National Association of Food Chains, recently urged all retail stores, to offer more specials, to move the meat to the consumer, creating a greater demand, getting rid of the oversupply and pushing up wholesale prices.

The supermarkets say they already have been bringing down the price of meat, even if the consumer doesn't think so. They argue that government figures don't take into account the time lag between a drop at the wholesale level and a decline at the supermarket counter.

"We have made sure that consumers do get the benefit of lower wholesale prices by lowering our retail meat prices,'' said Harold Friedland, vice president of Pantry Pride-Food Fair.

Pantry Pride had a net profit of just over $2 million last year, about one-tenth of one per cent. One reason for the below-average figures was the closing of unprofitable stores and the loss of $4 million in assets. This year, the chain expects sales of $2.3 billion and increased profits.

Hearnes party arrangements are completed

Final arrangements have been completed for the annual birthday party in honor of Warren and Betty Hearns of Charleston. The party is scheduled for July 20 at the Ramada Inn.

U. S. Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas Eagleton have accepted invitations to appear, as have James Kirkpatrick, Missouri secretary of state; James Spainhower, state treasurer; William Cason, president pro tem of the state senate; and Richard Rabbitt, speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives.

The keynote speaker will be Robert Strauss, of Washington, D. C. chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Strauss, national committeeman from Texas in 1968, the same year he served as co-chairman of the Humphrey - Muskie presidential campaign in that state.

In March 1970, he was elected treasurer of the national committee at a time when the DNC had a debt of $9.3 million and an operating deficit of $100,000 per month. He shifted the party's financing towards small contributors and two national telethons which produced enough funds to reduce the party debt by more than $6 million.

Strauss was named chairman of the national committee to re-elect a Democratic Congress in 1972. Later that year he was elected chairman of the national committee.

WOMEN IN THE HALLS OF IVY

The sweeping anti-sex discrimination guidelines for the nation's schools announced recently by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare elicited speculation on such things as separate showering facilities for mixed athletic teams. Actually, however, the real issues are more basic and the impact on the country's educational system will be substantial.

The proposed regulations will affect virtaully all public school systems in the United States, as well as nearly 2,500 post- secondary schools receiving Federal funds. At stake is the Federal share of the nation's budget for education, which this year is nearly $10 billion out of $96 billion. Non-complying schools stand to lose their share of Federal funds.

"We realize that this Federal effort has raised some understandable apprehensions," said HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger, "but we believe that sex discrimination in Federally assisted educational programs or activities can be eliminated, and eliminated without undue controversy or hardship in the academic community or elsewhere."

A look at the status of women in higher education illustrates clearly that more is involved than women's lib rhetoric. During the 1962-63 school year, 19% of faculty members in four- year institutions were women. Ten years later, after a concerted effort to raise that figure, only 20.6% were women.

More telling yet, however, is an apparently widespread practice of paying women faculty members substantially less than their male counterparts — an average of $2,000 less annually, according to a report by the Carnegie Commission on Women.

Pushed by various laws and other local pressures, campuses across the country have begun to rectify their wage practices. Although raises for women intended to bring them to par have averaged about $1,000, there have been some spectacular exceptions: the Univesity of Arkansas, for example, awarded one woman a raise of $13,000 and another $10,000. The University of Montana recently paid $88,000 in back pay and salary increases to 39 women faculty members.

It is only fair that one individual, male or female, receive the same wage as another for performing the same job. At the same time, however, it is vital that new laws intended to give women equality don't end up by establishing new systems of inequality.

JAPAN'S OWN NO FAULT

The Japanese are not yet completely Americanized, but they're getting there.

If a man slips on a wet floor in a Japanese office building, for example, it's almost certain that he won't sue the building's owners. In fact, the owners probably won't even carry liability insurance for that kind of contingency.

"In Japan, the individual almost never sues a company for such a reason. And if he does, he rarely wins."

That information comes from Sadaaki Kittaki of the Chiyoda Fire and Marine Insurance Co., who is in this country to learn American insurance methods, which differ quite a bit from those practiced in Japan. He reports on some of the differences in the newsletter of the CNA company of Chicago.

The hesitancy of the Japanese to initiate lawsuits is just one of their characteristics. Another is the traditionally close, almost familylike relations between people, especially in the smaller cities and towns. There is almost no bonding system at all but rather a greater reliance on mutual trust.

There are no "sign now and you're insured" deals by agents, either. Policy coverage does not begin in Japan until the premium is received by the company, and Japanese law is very firm in requiring that when premiums are not paid, a policy automatically becomes invalid. A company that chooses to be lenient can find itself in serious trouble with the government.

In sum, Japanese law and custom continue to put heavy responsibility on the consumer. However, says Kittaki, in insurance as in so many other things, Japanese laws and customs tend to follow the American lead.

Although both product liability and medical malpractice insurance are still rare, lawsuits in these areas are increasing.

THE LAND USE FUROR

When the House defeated the Land Use Planning Act of 1974 in a close vote the other day there were enough howls of dismay to suggest that it had just voted 211-204 to repeal motherhood.

The Sierra Club fired off an urgent Telex to editorial page editors accusing the House of "dereliction of duty." The New York Times, as is its wont, blamed it all on Watergate politics. And Senator Jackson as is his wont, promised to use his considerable parliamentary skills to revive land use in the form of a rider to some must bill.

But those of us who are less impassioned on the issue might conclude that the House acted with considerable wisdom. There is little persuasive evidence that it struck any kind of really damaging blow at environmental interests. And on the positive side, it may have headed off a movement towards over- planning that could, over time, seriously damage economic growth.

Fundamentally, the defeated bill would have authorized $800 million for grants to states to help them set up "comprehensive land use planning." The federal government would have had considerable power, of course, to decide how the money would be put to use.

Assuming that the federal government can afford $800 million, which is not a safe assumption these days, it may well be that the bill would have achieved some positive results. However, it might also have encouraged the kind of forced draft planning that soon would have had every acre of some states tied up in red tape that would create long delays for people looking for a place to live or conduct a business.

There is no persuasive evidence that any such forced draft is necessary. The states already are taking initiatives in land use planning. And other federal laws, most importantly the environmental protection and coastal zone management acts, already put strict limitations on the kind of land uses that cause "quality of life" problems that disturb environmentalists.

Given the cosmic effects that land use regulations can have, it seems to use more sensible to address land use problems on an "as needed" and "where needed" basis, rather than though some grandiose federal initiative. If the Colorado plan works, it might be something other states can emulate. The same Delaware. But there is no point in everyone getting locked into something that doesn't work just because of pressures to spend federal money.

We already have seen some of the consequences that flow from the difficulties oil companies have in finding sites for new refineries and utilities have in siting power plants. These were not totally responsible for the energy crisis, but they played a role. Some businessmen think a national land use policy that would clearly authorize such sites would be a good thing. But we doubt that the defeated bill was headed quite that way. As things now stand, states individually weigh the drawbacks of attracting industry against its benefits, which probably is a good thing.

At any rate, we don't feel any great sense of loss. And it seems to us that the House deserves some praise for knowing when to say no. -- The Wall Street Journal.

During a hike in the woods a troop of boy scouts came across an abandoned section of railroad track. Each, in turn, tried walking the rails but eventually lost his balance and tumbled off.

Suddenly two of the boys, after considerable whispering, offered to bet that they could both walk the entire length of the track without falling off. Challenged to make good their boast, the two boys jumped up on opposite rails, extended a hand to balance each other, and walked the entire section of track with no difficulty whatever.

There, in a nutshell, is the principle of moderen business and community living. The day of the hermit and the lone wolf are gone forever. We do things better, we produce more, and we live better by helping each other. The fellow who lends a helping hand benefits himself at the same time as he helps the other fellow.

The reverse is also true. When we don't help each other, when we don't cooperate. the whole system starts to rattle and shake.

The difference between a good company and a poor one, an effective department and an inefficient one, is often reflected in the co-operation, or lack of it, among the people who work there. When people help each other, freely and voluntarily, there's a spirit of teamwork that makes a department or company really go—a pleasure to be associated with. When there's no cooperation—no spirit of the helping hand freely given—what might have been pleasant jobs become grudging chores.

Do you recall when Edmund Hillary and his native guide, Tenzing, made their historic climb of Mt. Everest? Coming down from the peak Hillary suddenly lost his footing. Tenzing held the line taut and kept them both from falling by digging his ax into the ice. Later Tenzing refused any special credit for saving Hillary's life; he considered it a routine part of the job. As he put it: "Mountain climbers always help each each other."

Should the rest of us be any different?

NOW IS THE TIME

When the railroads went before the Interstate Commerce Commission to ask for "...selective freight rate increases" to help offset inflationary cost increases, their petition stated, "Having in mind the pressures upon the industry to meet new safety standards, provide new levels of equipment and service, advance the art of railroading with new information and control systems and achieve other major changes, it is apparent that deterioration of the financial situation simply cannot be permitted to take place."

This rail rate increase petition highlights again the urgency for action on the Surface Transportation Act of 1971 submitted to Congress last year. The Act deals with basic problems of surface transportation that have been building up for several decades as far as the railroads are concerned. Most of these problems are traceable to a regulatory system no longer applicable to common carrier transportation. It was for this reason that other carriers, the regulated water and motor carriers, joined with the rails in pushing for passage of the Surface Transportation Act or 1971. It is vitally important that there be public support of the transportation industry in its call for new regulatory laws and the enactment of other needed corrective measures. In no other way can regulated rail, water and motor carriers meet transport demands of the future.

Now is the time to assure vital transport progress by supporting urgently needed new legislation-- legislation designed to unleash the long repressed capacity of private enterprise to exert the initiative upon which tomorrow's transportation industry must be built.

GOOD ADVICE FROM NEW ZEALAND

Ill-advised campaigns, aimed at persuading the entire population to abstain from eating certain nutritious foods that for centuries have been part of the human diet, have posed problems for the dairy and meat industry. It has been said that these foods contribute to the risk of heart disease. Impressive evidence that normal people should adhere to normal balanced diets has been widely overlooked in the furor. Typical of this evidence is a little noticed Report of the Royal Society of New Zealand which was commissioned by New Zealand's Minister of Science, "to make a critical examination of the available information on factors involved in the causation of coronary artery disease..."

The Report, which came out after two years of study, said that, "So far as the general population is concerned, the present state of knowledge does not justify advising any major changes in dietary habits aimed specifically at reducing the incidence of coronary heart disease. It is considered that this objective can be best achieved by adherence to the type of well-balanced diet which would be advised on general medical grounds for maintenance of good health...." The Report said specifically that efforts to avoid "... normal dietary fats are not justified." Commenting on the Report, one authority noted, "... it is one thing to give a patient advice which, although erroneous, may indirectly help in his recovery. It is quite another matter when this same advice, or for that matter even advice which might be correst in a particular set of circumstances, is extended to the population a large."

It is time the U.S. public took a hard look at the current wave of attacks on virtually everything we eat, wear or use--before we find ourselves shirtless, jobless and hungry.

WHO WANTS A GIANT NEW FEDERAL HEALTH PLAN?

Left- siders are beating the drums again for a giant new federal health insurance plan which is supposed to protect everybody from "catastrophic" medical costs. Getting into the act as usual, the Nixon Administration has come up with its own plan to try to steal their thunder.

Almost every recent valid attempt to sample public opinion in the United States has shown inflation to be the top cause of concern. By contrast, few are worried about inadequate medical care.

The cost of the Administration's version of the new health care plan is estimated at $6 billion more in federal funds, along with payments of from $7 to $9 billion a year by business. The new plan borrows the tricky, dishonest system of social security whereby the employer is required to pay a large part of the program's costs for his employees. The actual result of such a requirement can only cause the employer to hire fewer employees and to pay less, thus adding to unemployment, and to raise prices.

The administrative burdens of trying to run such a program would swamp an already overloaded and inefficient bureaucracy. This is a scheme to extend government and increase inflationary deficit spending. The time has passedwhen most of our people car be fooled into believing that such expansion is really in their interst. HLH

Terrorists Under Umbrella: Special Agents Using James Bond Techniques To Block 'Liberation' Armies' Violence here

WASHINGTON — A special scientificallly trained network of coutner- terrorist operatives has been strung around the U.S. This is the explosive season. A long fuse reaching from Buenos Aires to the U.S. has been lit by the Peronista- political dramatics there. For on the terrorist front, as the Argentine goes, so does the U.S., according to the specialists.

Thus, experts in a score of American agencies -- some seemingly remote from the "liberation" front -- are on the alert. The counter- terror operation, carefully keeping banks, big industrial plants, power stations, ports, courts, oil company offices and nuclear power plants under surveillance, is an intricate hush- hush network reaching from the White House to the FBI, CIA and even to the National Bureau of Standards and the Post Office.

They watch for saboteurs. They trail the ad hoc "revolutionary" and "liberation" organizations. Oddly, the federal security chiefs can't see the Symbionese Liberation Army as typical of the others, which are far more sophisticated, dedicated and given to far less national melodramatics.

There are at least 21 terrorist groups now being probed by the FBI alone. They have a membership of some 15,000, according to Assistant FBI Director W. Raymond Wannall, in charge of the Bureau's Intelligence Division. That's a lot of people- power. And it takes a large number of agents to probe the revolutionaries carefully these days -- for any misstep would be flashed across the media as an invasion of left- wing rights and privacy.

Not far behind the Bureau is the U.S. Postal Service. At least 10 low- emission X-ray machines have been strategically placed by the Service across the U.S. Postal inspectors -- a very tough low- profile band of men -- have 150 hand- held metal detectors at key postal sites. And 44 inspectors have received intense training in all forms of bomb investigation.

There is a virtually unknown Postal Service Security Force of some 2,644 uniformed personnel providing protective services at 73 major postal facilities and 48 full and part- time federal court locations across the nation -- including the Supreme Court which recently received so- called "gas postcards."

There's a James Bond type counter- terror operation run by the National Bureau of Standards. It's quietly developing performance standards for security devices against theft by the underworld or the underground of fissionable material from nuclear reactors. These new devices are aimed at the equipment the terrorists would have to use to protect themselves against the impact of radiation of any fissionable material they may be attempting to steal. Terrorists trying to snatch the fissionable material would have to carry special equipment to avoid deadly injury to themselves.

Thus the government is moving to counteract those who may be planning to steal "in a paper bag" enough of the radioactive stuff to make a crude atomic bomb.

All this is linked with the FBI's "wide ranging training programs" too equip police officers for a fight against the violence, the bombings and the terrorism which peppered the U.S. and then suddenly appeared to stop. No authority believes it is over. Quite to the contrary.

Thus, quietly, the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism chaired by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, has created a "Working Group" of top- level government executives. It has developed a system of "instant" contact with the White House, the FBI, the CIA and the Pentagon. It operates on a national and international front.

It has developed a very tough system of screening visas of those seeking to enter the U.S. This screening has resulted in keeping at least one notorious terrorist group's chief out of the U.S. Under the direction of Ambassador Lewis Hoffacker the Working Group keeps in tight tough with other governments, the International Police (Interpol) and he counterparts abroad of the FBI and the CIA.

Rarely before has there been such a vigilance network. Sabotage is one thing, but the elusive, almost frivolous violence oriented groups are another. It is difficult to infiltrate them. They hide behind such titles as Americans For Justice, Citizens Committee to Demilitarize Industry, Purple Sunshine Clan, Red Willow Family, Perfect Park Home Grown Garden Society, Quarter Moon Tribes, Black Afro Militant Movement, Brothers United, volunteers of America, and the New Year's Gang, according to the federal investigators.

And it is forgotten that the old Weather Poeple crowd, which bombed and raided, are still fugitives.

There is talk in counter- terrorist circles that the smart- alecky bomb- planting youths, the professional operatives and the actual revolutionary leaders have been meeting to explore creating one big "umbrella" group to coordinate the bombings. And thus knock out strategic plants and power stations, kidnap key executives and attempt to disrupt the U.S. as they have Argentina.

Such an umbrella coordinating terrorist organization could blast the U.S. -- from corner to corner -- unless they get entangled in the new counter- terrorist network.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

Klassen's Dazzling Display

WASHINGTON — In response to our investigative series on postal abuses, the postal authorities have been fencing with the facts. They have put on a dazzling display of dodging and thrusting.

We reported, for example, that Postmaster General Ted Klassen had frequently dispatched his chauffeur to pick up his wife and bring her to postal headquarters to dine with him in his private kitchen, with the taxpayers providing the cook and waiter.

The Postal Service assured inquiring congressmen that Mrs. Klassen "rarely has had lunch with the postmaster general." Quite true. She dines -- not lunches -- with him, as we reported.

We also reported that Klassen's favorite chauffeur (he has two) ran so many overtime errands that he doubled his regular salary. Responded the Postal Service: The chauffeur is entitled to overtime pay "on the many occasions when Mr. Klassen is called upon to fulfill postal engagements outside of regular working hours."

A typical occasion took place on Sunday, June 16, after we had written our story. A government chauffeur drove the Klassens to a department store where they purchased some curtain rods. The chauffeur waited outside, in a no- parking zone, the car's engine idling to power the air conditioner. When the Klassens emerged triumphantly with the curtain rods, the chauffeur popped out, deposited the cuttain rods in the trunk and drove off with the Klassens in a car that had been kept cool for them.

Most of our charges, of course, were more serious. We reported, for example, that Klassen collected a secret $22,917.67 fee from the Martin E. Segal Company in 1971 while he was on the Postal Board of Governors.

The previous year, he had personally intervened as deputy postmaster general to award a contract that the Segal firm sought for a client. Thanks to Klassen, the Segal company was able to collect a generous 15 per cent fee. Then Klassen, after his promotion to the Postal Board, accepted a $22,917.67 consultant's fee from the same firm.

Klassen, meanwhile, moved up the final notch on the postal ladder and became postmaster general. Threafter, the Segal firm received a large postal contract to do a life insurance study.

Klassen has now issued an indignant denial. He did not receive any "secret" fees, he has protested righteously. But if you read his denial closely, you will find he does not deny taking the money but denies only that it was secret.

No one on the Board of Governors knew Klassen had taken a fee from a postal contractor. We interviewed people at the highest level of the Postal Service; they had no knowledge of the payments. Even Martin E. Segal himself, now retired from his firm, told us he didn't know that the firm he founded h d paid Klassen.

Not until ny associate Jack Cloherty confronted him with the facts did Klassen concede that he had pocketed the money. We believe the transaction, indeed, was secret. But the real point is that Klassen collected $22,917.67 from a firm that had received postal benefits.

Here are a few more examples of Post Office hair-splitting:

-- The Postal Service denies that Klassen's office was "baronial," despite the fact that it is equipped with its own private dining area and a day bed. He also shares with the Postal Board an 11th floor penthouse, replete with oak doors, plush carpeting, fancy chandeliers and a $50,000 kitchen. The board meets there once a month; it is available to Klassen all the time.

--Klassen's press aides originally told us that only dignitaries received fancy stamp albums from the postmaster general for Christmas. They had to trim their sails, however, when we discovered that Klassen's personal friends had also received stamp albums.

--The postal poobahs, labeled as false our charge that the mails are moving slower now than they did three years ago. They cited their own studies but did not mention that the studies were manipulated to make the mail look like it moved faster. Sometimes the mail was specially handled so as to move more quickly for the benefit of the studies.

--The Post Office denied our charge that the Bulk Mail network had run into cost overruns. Since the denial, however, the House Post Office Committee has verified our charges.

The Postal Service hasn't even attempted to refute our findings that Klassen has packed the postal payroll with his old friends. Many hold do-nothing jobs, pulling down as much as $40,000 a year, while postmasters around the nation are being told to tighten their belts.

Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., has now called Klassen and his cronies on the carpet for their wastrel ways. He might also find it instructive to study their dodges and denials as a lesson in the Nixon Administration specialty of government by public relations.

Ann Landers

Love is learned best by example

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing this for "Been Down That Road," the woman whose husband was always after her for sex. She complained because he made "suggestive" remarks in front of the children.

You could have done better with that answer, Ann. I know, because I was raised in a strict, religious family where there was no sign of affection between my father and mother. It had a terrible effect on my sister and me.

Our parents never exchanged one word of endearment. There were no pet names or even a pat on the hand (much less the fanny). It was as if my father was a roomer and my mother was a housekeeper.

Children learn from example. When they see no sign of tenderness or caring they get the unspoken message that something is wrong with showing affection. They grow up inhibited and find it difficult in later years to express affection to others.

Both my sister and I had to have several years of therapy before we could open up and accept love from a member of the opposite sex.

Please tell your readers that parents should never be ashamed to show love for one another. Encourage them to smooch a little in front of the kids. My husband and I did and it was the best sex education in the world. -- Reverse Strategy

Dear R.S.: Bravo for a fine letter. I agree --100 per cent. Love IS best taught by example. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the woman whose husband was sterile and got her father- in- law to get her pregnant cracked me up.

My wife Irma and I were talking about it last night and she asked me an odd question. (I should tell you first that we have three healthy kids.) Irma said, "If I hadn't been able to have any children, would you have agreed to get my sister Ellen pregnant so our child would have genes from my side of the family?" (It so happens that Ellen is four years younger than Irma, single, and quite a dish.) I thought awhile and said, "Yes, I'd agree."

All hell broke loose. My wife kept me up half the night yelling because I said yes. I tried to remind her that SHE was the one who had dreamed up the question, which was crazy to begin with because we already have a nice family. Nothing could quiet her.

If it's O.K. for a woman to get pregnant by her husband's relative, why doesn't it work the other way 'round? -- Puzzled

Dear P.: I didn't say it was O.K. Go back and read my answer again. I'm against adultery no matter who brings it up at bedtime.

Dear Ann Landers: I thought I was a social drinker, but it turns out I'm a social drunk. I don't believe I'm a real alcoholic because after I go off the deep end I can't look at booze for two or three days. And I don't use booze as a crutch, either. It's just that when I do have a drink I can't stop until I'm smashed.

I know darned well I must quit drinking completely. Can you give me a few words of advice that might help me, or must I go to A.A.? -- Lauretta From Chicago

Dear L.: Anyone who says, "When I do have a drink I can't stop until I'm smashed," needs more than a few words of advice. Go to A.A.

New looks for fall '74

The great accessories

Great assessories are the final touch, the last step to a totally pulled together look for fall. Leathers, tweeds, knits, natural looking jewelry, belts and scarves are featured.

Good investments

A sweater vest (above) is an investment that will go a long way this fall. They are available in patterns and solids, and can be worn with a shirt and pants, a blouse and skirt or over last year's shirtdress. Softness if the message in all these skirts and blouses, right. Ultressa, sheers and single knits in prints and solids ... styled in classic shirts, updated blouses and stylish peplums are favorites for fall.

NMC finals set Saturday

PARMA — Lilbourn battled its way into the finals of the New Madrid county Little League baseball tournament here Thursday night, claiming a 7-4 victory over New Madrid to advance into the title bout against Parma Saturday night at 7 p.m.

Rain forced postponement of the Jr. Babe Ruth encounter between Marston and Lilbourn and threw the tournament finals to Saturday night. Tonight's schedule has Marston and Lilbourn settling their contest at 7:30 with the winner advancing to a 8:30 date against New Madrid for the Jr. Babe Ruth championship Saturday night. Marston led 3-0 after one and one half innings of play Thursday night.

Lilbourn rallied from a 3-1 deficit in the last of the third inning and then charged ahead with a big three run fourth despite being out-hit by New Madrid 5-4.

Four errors opened the door for four Lilbourn runs while Clark was holding them to four singles. Palmer homered and Sullenger and T. St. Mary tripled for New Madrid in their losing cause.

Cubs cool Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Baseball's Chicago Cubs have reached the game's traditional July 4 milestone 7½ games back in the National League East, but Manager Whitey Lockman sees hope.

A 3-2 victory Thursday over the front-running St. Louis Cardinals was the Cubs' fifth on an eight-game trip, and each was by one run.

"Obviously you better win your share of those kind," observed Lockman, whose young club also made the most of one scoring inning.

"But the division race is wide open," he insisted. "Not only our club is in it, but there are five others who'll stay bunched all the way."

Right-hander Steve Stone, 3-2, who had never beaten the Cardinals, was the Chicago man of the hour in a strong starting performance.

Shelled by the same team May 17, the 5-foot-10 pitcher restricted the Cards to a single earned run through 7 2-3 innings and let Oscar Zamora mop up.

The keys as viewed by the mustachioed Stone were disposing of dangerous Reggie Smith four times at bat and retiring Lou Brock in a sixth-inning pinch-hit role.

"Don't tell me about Smith," sighed Stone, who was acquired by the Cubs last December in the deal that sent Ron Santo to the Chicago White Sox.

"I was in the other league with him," he recalled, "and he hit one at least eight miles off me. I had a few coming against him."

And of Brock, who bounced into a force play to thwart a budding Cardinals threat, Stone noted, "I was glad to get him on the first pitch. I remember a lot of times he's drilled the first one right by me."

St. Louis' scoring came in the third inning on a walk, Bake McBride's single and a grounder and in the sixth courtesy of a Vic Harris error.

But the bursts were too little to offset a three-run Cubs rally in the fourth featuring Andre Thornton's run-scoring double and a run-producing single by rookie Steve Swisher.

Despite the defeat, the Cardinals came through the day owning their division's lead at 2½ games for only the third time in 24 years on July 4.

The other occasions were during pennant-winning seasons in 1967 and '68, which were small consolation to losing pitcher John Curtis, 4-9.

"It's tremendously disappointing to be with a team you know can win and not do anything," Curtis lamented.

Jackson unbeaten

Scott City grouped behind two time Missouri all-stater Jeff Jackson of Benton and clinched a tie for first place in the district American Legion league, blasting Poplar Bluff 15-4.

The fire-balling righthander scattered seven hits, issued five walks and fanned 13 to run his season record to a spotless 5-0. Besides handling the pitching, Jackson also led the team's 10 hit barrage with a pair of doubles and drove home five runs. Rob Killion and Mike Schaffer had two hits apiece for the winners.

Scott City has won 11 of 12 games this season, losing an early season encounter at Farmington.

Homecoming planned

During the years that First Assembly of God has been in Sikeston, many of the young people of the church have felt called to enter full- time Christian ministry. This weekend the church will honor these ministers with a homecoming celebration.

Twenty- four men and women have been involved and have left their home church and the Sikeston area to fulfill this ministry. Several of these have married companions who were not residents of the Sikeston area. If it were possible for all of these to return at one time, nearly 40 people would be involved.

A time of fellowship and renewing of acquaintances is scheduled Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the church fellowship hall for the returning ministers, church members and friends.

The Sunday School hour, beginning at 9:30 a.m., will be a time of interest as these ministers will be involved and will visit some of the classes.

A fellowship dinner will be served by the church during the noon hour Sunday.

The ministers will participate in each of the services, including the youth service at 5:30 p.m. and the evangelistic service at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Some of those coming from the greatest distances are: the Rev. and Mrs. Orvil Holden of Gillete, Wyo., the Rev. and Mrs. Jerry Smith of Maryville, Tenn., the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Jackson and the Rev. and Mrs. Gary Denbow of Springfield and the Rev. and Mrs. John Standridge of St. Louis.

Many area residents will remember these and others who will attend the homecoming and will want to share the fellowship time on Saturday, says the Rev. Loren Wooten, pastor.

THE BIBLE
141. David Refuses to Kill Saul

When Saul returned from battling the Philistines, he took 3,000 men in the wilderness of Engedi. It so happened that Saul stumbled into a cave where David and his men were in hiding. David's men whispered that the Lord had brought Saul here so that David could avenge himself.

Quietly, David crept forward and slit off the hem of Saul's robe, but he regretted it almost immediately, saying "...The Lord forbid that I should do this thing unto my master, the Lord's anointed, to stretch forth my hand against him, seeing he is the anointed of the Lord." (I Samuel 24:6)

When Saul left the cave, David ran after him, and bowing low, showed him that he had repaid evil with goodness. Then David held up the hem of the robe to convince Saul that he had no malice in his heart. And Saul said, "...I know well that thou shalt surely be king, and that the kingdom of Israel be established in thine hand. Swear now therefore unto me by the Lord, that thou wilt not cut off my seed after me, and that thou wilt not destroy my name out of my father's house. And David sware unto Saul..." (I Samuel 24:20-22)

Fire blamed on fireworks

Firemen extinguished a small fire on the Frisco railroad tracks behind Riggs Wholesale Co., 380 N. West St., shortly after 9 p.m. Thursday.

Firemen said the fire was caused by fireworks landing on a cross-tie. There was no damage.

At 1:47 p.m. Thursday, firemen were called to the U Pump It service station on East Malone Ave. when a car owned by Jerry McDawell of Charleston caught fire.

The car received minor damage to the hood, firemen said.

A false alarm sent firemen to the Dutch Pantry Restaurant, Highway 62 East about 9 p.m. Wednesday. Someone saw flames from a burning wheatfield behind the building and apparently thought restaurant was on fire, firemen said.

At 10 p.m. Wednesday, firemen were called to a weed fire in the 200 block of Ralph Street. The fire was apparently started by fireworks, firemen said.

$200 stolen from Kelletts

About $200 to $250 and a cash register were taken early today from Kellett Oil Co. service station, 901 S. Main St., while the attendent was pumping gas for a customer.

Police were called at 2:39 a.m. today by Earnest Taylor, who said he was out of the office for a few minutes assisting a customer and when he returned he found the cash register was gone.

Police said a back door to the building had apparently been forced open.

Charleston man guilty on drug charge; fined $50

CHARLESTON — George Rodney Drury of Charleston was found guilty of possession and being under the influence of a certain controlled substance (marijuana) in a trial by court Wednesday and was assessed a $50 fine, plus court costs by Magistrate Judge T. J. Brown Jr.

Witnesses called by Prosecuting Attorney W. Clifton Banta Jr. included Lt. Ben Stampley, Police Chief Bob Ritchey, Roy Cox of Charleston Route One and Robert Briner of Cape Girardeau, director of the crime laboratory.

Diane Cox of Charleston was called as a defense witness.

According to testimony from Cox, he went to the home of Mrs. Diane Cox in Charleston the night of June 14 looking for his grandson. Cox said a man, who he could not identify as Drury, was lying on the front porch. He said he tried to rouse him and after failing to do so, went to the police department and informed them that the man was lying there and he thought he might be sick.

Lt. Stampley, the arresting officer, testified he went to the home, found Drury on the front porch and after considerable effort, he and an auxiliary officer managed to get Drury to his feet and into the police car. While trying to awaken Drury, Stampley said he saw a bag, which appeared to contain marijuana, sticking out of the left front pocket of Drury's pants.

The bag of marijuana was taken to Cape Girardeau by Chief Ritchey and according to Robert Briner, who analyzed the contents, the bag contained 6.6 grams of marijuana.

Defense counsel objected to the bag of marijuana being entered as evidence and asked that the charge be dismissed on the grounds that the arrest was not valid, since no crime was committed in the presence of the arresting officer and there was no basis for a search.

According to Mrs. Cox, she had been dating Drury at the time of his arrest and although she was not at home on the night in question, she had no objections to him being on her porch asleep.

Trial for James Randolph Baker of Poplar Bluff, who entered a not guilty plea to a careless and imprudent driving charge, was set for Aug. 15 and he was released on his own recognizance.

James Henry Vinson of Columbus, Ky. was sentenced to 30 days in jail on a driving while intoxicated charge and ten days for failure to have an operator's license.

Gloria Swift of Wyatt entered a not guilty plea to a misdemeanor stealing charge and trial date was scheduled for July 11. Miss Swift, arrested June 25 and accused of stealing $37 from P. J. Chapman of Wyatt, remains in custody under $500 bond.

Richard Honorable of Chicago, Ill. was fined $150 plus court costs on a driving while intoxicated charge and was given until July 25 to pay the balance of his fine in the amount of $24.50.

Judge Brown issued a commitment order for Richard Neal Emanuel of Charleston who failed to pay his fine of $50 and costs levied on a June 13 speeding charge. Emanuel had paid $15 on his fine.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Jo Ann Biggers of East Prairie, who failed to appear on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license.

Cases continued to July 11 included: Collis Ray Haddock of Bertrand, driving while intoxicated, driving while operator's license was revoked and leaving the scene of an accident; and Herman Moss Jr. of East Prairie, operating a vehicle while license was revoked.

Speeding charges against the following were continued to July 25: James Phillip Bell Jr. of Adamasville, Ala.; Fred Kirk Blaize of Vincennes, Ind.; Perry Wallace Fowler of Uniontown, Ky., and Randall Eugene Morse of Mexquite, Tex.

Appearing earlier this week in Magistrate Court were: Roger Audie Brown, speeding, $27; Jessie James Cooper, speeding, $33; Brenda Kay Jones and Ronald R. Jones, violation of the wildlife code, $26 each; Robert Joseph Bailey, expired operator's license and speeding, $63; and Willie James Robinson, speeding, $41.

WATCHWORDS FOR BOATING SAFETY

Yes, people actually do fall out of boats. In fact, thousands of them every year. It happens when they are standing up — get too excited after hooking a big fish — thrown out while crossing another boat's wake at the wrong angle — riding on the bow of a boat going at high speed and for many other reasons. Here's a list of things to do if somebody from your boat falls overboard — not necessarily in the right order. 1. Get something into the water that floats and the person can hang on to — a life preserver is best but don't wait. 2. Make a turn at slow speed back to where the person is in the water. 3. Approach with the bow heading into the wind so you won't run him over — you don't have brakes. 4. Stop the engine and help the person back in from the rear of the boat. Never risk diving in after a person unless the victim is seriously hurt or unconscious!

Authorities recover drugs; 2 men arrested

MALDEN — Some 22,000 pills, including several thousand which would have caused instant death if taken by a normal person, were recovered early Wednesday after Dunklin County Deputy Sheriff Bob McDonald and members of the Malden police department arrested two area men for the burglary of the Dr. S. W. Gaston Clinic early Tuesday morning.

Deputy McDonald and Officer Carroll McGowen of the Malden department, assisted by other Malden policemen, arrested Stanley Daniel Latham, 23, an ex-convict, and Terry William Case, 26, both of Malden, for the burglary. Both men were reportedly under the influence of drugs at the time of their arrests at 9 p.m. Tuesday authorities said.

The 28 bottles of stolen pills, which included such items as medicines for heart patients, were found buried in a gravel pit about five miles west of Malden at 3:10 a.m. Wednesday. Officers were led to the scene after questioning the suspects, who reportedly were planning to store the drugs until they could be sold on the black market.

Deputy McDonald said the black market price could be as much as 50 cents a pill, or in excess of $10,000 for the entire supply.

McDonald worked on the case with Malden Police Chief Woody McMillan from 8:30 a.m. Tuesday until 9 a.m. Wednesday when his report was filed with the prosecuting attorney for state charges.

McDonald said medical authorities had advised them that 3,500 of the pills, including Penaerythritol Tetranitrate and Digitoxin U.S.P., would have probably caused instant death to any normal person taking them since those drugs are used only for heart patients to stimulate the heart.

Other pills taken were identified as Ostrakal, Teracycline Hydrochloride, Buffadyne, Meprobamate, Spasmolin, Ammonium, Butabarbital, Sulfa Triple, Volaxin, Coryztime, A. P.C., Dilantin Sodium, P.A.C., Alised, Zypac, Bicalpho, Glucoron, Antacid, Conjugated Estrogens, Butabarbital Sodium, and Phenobarbital.

The burglary was discovered early Tuesday. Entry was gained by using a pair of vice grips on the outside handle of the door and twisting it open, McDonald said. Also taken in the theft were $90 in cash and a check-writer.

BENTON — Fourteen cases were heard Wednesday by Judge Lloyd Briggs during Magistrate Court.

Charges against Wayne Lee Harris of Sikeston were continued until July 17. Harris is charged with escaping custody on June 18 and breaking into Lambert's Cafe in Sikeston on June 12 and stealing personal property.

Mrs. Josie Turner of Oran received a five- year suspended jail sentence and was fined $100 after she pleaded guilty to a charge of not having a valid operator license.

Fined for speeding were:

James Johnson of East Prairie, $26; Ernest Edward Story of Charleston, $13; Patrick Dean Singleton of Scott City, $15; James Monroe Urhahn of Benton, $15; James Earl Winifield, Jr. of Oran, $15; Mirly Hahs of Cape Girardeau, $5.

Fined for other traffic violations were:

Betty Jewell Huckabee of Cape Girardeau, driving without a license, $5; Richard Earl Eskew of Vanduser, no chauffer's license, $30; Raymond C. Long of St. Louis, improper registration and failure to display certificate of inspection, $45; Bernard Grass of Bell City, improper registration, $5; Richard Lee Johns of Oran, inadequate mufflers, $10;

After pleading guilty to a non-support charge, Daniel Franklin Ross of Chaffee was ordered to pay $7.50 per child per week for support.

St. Louis man arrested

Clay Fay Graham of St. Louis was arrested Thursday night on seven counts of speeding, one count of careless and imprudent driving and one count of failure to appear in court.

Police said the alleged speeding incidents occurred about three weeks ago when Graham was chased by police, wrecked his truck and fled on foot.

Police searched for him, but didn't find him until Thursday night when officer Joe Sebourn found him at the King Arthur Lounge in the Kingsway Plaza Mall.

Other arrests include Billy Jay Nance, 1607 E. Kathleen Ave., speeding and no driver's license; Carl Edward Holifield, 329 Anderson St., public intoxication; Ancell Ceral Gross, 815 Hunter St., public intoxication; Bobby Gene McColloch Jr. of Portageville Route Two, indecent exposure.

Richard Jimmy Johnson, 810 Hunter St., assault and battery; John Walker Hunt and Miles Robert Hunt Oran Route One, public intoxication.

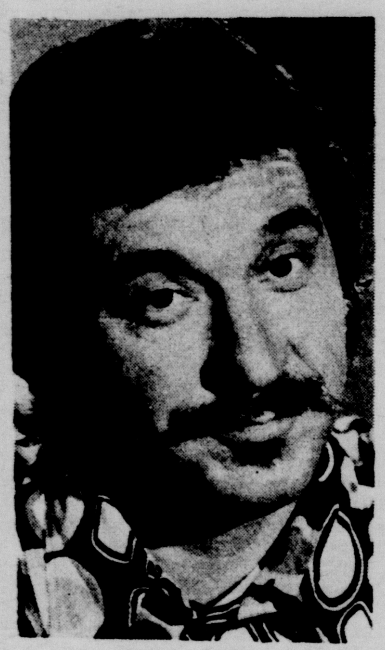
'DOC' SEVERINSEN'S 'TODAY'S CHILDREN' AND THE 'NOW GENERATION BRASS'



"Doc" Severinsen and his "Now Generation Brass," featuring hos singing and dancing troupe, "Today's Children," will headline the Paducah - McCracken County Bicentennial Celebration, Saturday, July 6, at 9:00 PM at the Tillman Football Stadium in Paducah, Kentucky.

"Doc," who is known to millions from his nightly appearances on Johnny Carson's "The Tonight Show," is also recognized as one of the foremost trumpet players and musicians in the world. He is also known as a pretty flambouant dresser, and easly has one of the largest and flashiest wardrobes ever assembled.

"Doc" Severinsen and "Today's Children" with the "Now Generation Brass" have become one of the most sought- after headline shows in the country. "Doc," known in every nook and cranny and hamlet in these United States, from his nightly appearances on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show," developed this "presentation" when he realized some years ago that to simply get a group together to play a Las Vegas club, or some other club around the country, would not provide the showcase he knew was necessary to achieve stardom.

True, he was accepted in the business as one of the finest musicians around, but that wasn't enough. He needed more. He realized that, after an appearance at a Las Vegas lounge. His fronting a hot sextet didn't have the production and scope needed to set the world on fire.

It was then he decided to develop a concept - a complete presentation. He thought of the great Cab Calloway and the late phenomenal Paul Whiteman. He realized success required putting a complete musical show together - beginning, middle and end.

His opportunity to put his ideas to the test came when he was booked into the Persian Room of New York's Plaza Hotel. He gathered eight of the best young voices he could find - a group of eleven top musicians, arrangements and a theme, and opened in the Persian Room as "Doc" Severinsen with "Today's Children" and the "Now Generation Brass." The result was the hit of the season — and has gone on to appear at major clubs, colleges, concerts and fairs across the country.

"Today's Children" is a refreshing assortment of great young talent, whose background includes modeling nursing, choreography, linguistics, poetry, auto racing, needlepoint, and 22 years as the boss's daughter.

Nancy Severinsen, the oldest of "Doc's own brood of five, auditioned for "Today's Children" just like everyone else, because "Doc" didn't want nepotism in the group, but she was so good they couldn't turn her down. Corliss Taylor is a graduate nurse, Todd Shelton was a paramedic, Jim Dahlman is working on his Master's Degree, Tanya Buche was one of Dean Martin's "Golddiggers," Sheila Crews, an opera buff, has appeared in "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "Die Fleidermaus," Rick Buche was one of the Nabors Kids on the Jim Nabors Show, and Mike rouch has a B.A. in psychology. All of "Today's Children" have something special to offer, and it comes together in an exciting blend of voices.

The "Now Generation Brass" is made up of some of the best sidemen living today. Fred Stites, percussionist, and Ross Tompkins, keyboard, fly their own planes, Peter Woodford, British guitarist, doubles in photography, Dick Spencer, saxophone, loves sports cars, Lew Tabackin, tenor sax and flute, came from Bobby Rosengarden's ABC Orchestra to "Doc"'s NBC Orchestra, and, with the possible exception of trumpeter Snooky Young, the group humorist, who credits his ability to the "school of hard knocks;" almost all hold college degrees in music, several having Master's Degrees. Bruce Paulson, trombone, got his Bachelor's Degree in anthropology, but is a graduate of Glen Miller's and Buddy Rich's orchestras. McDowell Kenley, bass trombone and tuba, holds three degrees in music, including a Master's at N.Y.U. Ed Shaughnessy, who played with Bennie Goodman, Count Basie and the great Duke Ellington during the big band era, though self- taught, lectures throughout the country at colleges, has authored three books and writes a regular column for Downbeat Magazine. Even the audio engineer, Patricia Stites, has a Bachelor's Degree from North Texas State University where she was a piano major.

NBC WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIE

NBC WEDNESDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES: -- "World Premiere: The Questor Tapes" -- Robert Foxworth stars as Questor, an android activated in a laboratory and programmed to find its missing creator. (Color; repeat)

Robert Foxworth stars as Questor, an android (an ambulatory computer capable of all human functions), in "The Questor Tapes," a World Premiere film to be colorcast on "NBC Wednesday Night at the Movies" July 10 (8-10 p.m. CDT) on the NBC Television Network.

Scientists from five nations are assembled in a laboratory at Caltech in Pasadena, Calif., to program Questor, created by Dr. Emile Vaslovik, a missing Nobel Prize- winning scientist. Micro- electronics engineer Jerry Robinson protests their decision to ignore Vaslovik's tape and use university programming. The scientists refuse his request and proceed with their plan. When that apparently fails to activate Questor, they have no choice but to use Vaslovik's tape. Although the android temporarily emits a brain wave, it soon falls silent and the scientists retire for the night. Alone in the laboratory, Questor activates itself and escapes. Programmed to find its creator of face nuclear self-destruction, Questor selects Jerry Robinson to help him with his mission.

The Universal production was directed by Richard A.Colla. Gene Roddenberry and Gene L. Coon wrote the screenplay from a story by Roddenberry.

PROGRAM NOTES
CBS NEW RETROSPECTIVE
Sundays, July 7 through September 29, 1974
6:00 - 7:00 PM

CBS NEWS RETROSPECTIVE, a unique 12- week series of some of the outstanding CBS News documentaries of past years, will be seen on the CBS Television Network starting July 7 at 6 PM, CNYT. CBS News Correspondent John Hart, as he did last year, will act as the host for the series. Among the newsmen who are reporting in this summer's selections are Edward R. Morrow, Walter Cronkite, Robert Trout, Eric Sevareid and Charles Kuralt.

"In the first 'CBS News Retrospective' series last year, we necessarily had to limit ourselves to just 12 of the many excellent documentaries produced by CBS News in the 1950's and 1960's," says Bill Leonard, CBS News Senior Vice President and Director of Public Affairs Broadcasting. "There were many more than those which warranted rebroadcasting, of course, and since the public response was so great, we've selected another 12 which a whole new generation of viewers will get to see for the first time. We're very proud of these trail- blazing broadcasts. Moreover, they remain relevant."

PLAYBOY IMAGE IS OVER FOR HAMILTON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Quick, now. What image pops into your head when you hear the name George Hamilton?

If you're like most people, you immediately think of a playboy. Handsome, suave, debonair. The kind of guy most men would like to be at least one weekend in their lives.

For poor George, that image is his problem. It was an OK image for a while but he thinks he's grown up now and has outgrown it. A couple of things have happened to help change the impression although it still clings to him like a particurly nasty leach.

The first thing that happened was that George made and starred in "Evel Knievel," a rousing action film about the motorcycle thrill man. He says that film brought him a whole new crop of fans.

"The kids are the ones who recognize me now," he says. "They loved that picture."

The other event that helped carve a new George Hamilton was his marriage to Alana Collins. Nothing can cool a playboy image faster than a marriage.

George says that becoming a husband has brought him something most newlywed guys claim they have lost — freedom. This peculiar inverse effect is worth examining.

"When I was a man- about- town," he says, "that whole dating thing tied me down. Every night, I'd have to go out, pick up my date, go somewhere, take her home. God help me if I stayed over a while — I wouldn't get home until two or three in the morning, with that cement feeling.

"Now I have freedom. I can stay home with Alana. I don't have to go out. I love being married."

Goerge and Alana are expecting their first child, due sometime in September.

"Boy or girl," George says, "Its name will be Ashley Stevens Hamilton. I really don't care what it is, but I tell Alana I want a girl because I think that's what she wants to hear."

Two Advance residents were killed and 32 persons were injured in 13 traffic accidents in the Bootheel area Wednesday and over the Fourth of July holiday, according to the highway patrol.

The double fatality brings the number of traffic deaths to 55 for the year, compared with 51 persons killed in area traffic accidents at this time last year.

Frelan D. Whitaker, 73, and Guy Austin Carlton, 61, of Advance, were killed in a three-car accident at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday one mile west of Advance on Route C.

Voters back reform drive with petitions

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — "The people don't want to wait" until the Missouri Legislature does something about closing loopholes in Missouri's election campaign laws, says state Rep. George K. Hoblitzelle, R-Ladue.

Hoblitzelle, Rep. Steve Vossmeyer, D-St. Louis, and other petition workers delivered to the secretary of state Thursday petitions bearing 109,802 signatures collected during the past month.

A little under 65,000 were needed. The petition filed on the 198th anniversary of the United States, were delivered two hours before the 5 p.m. Thursday deadline.

If certified by the secretary of state, the petitions will place on the November ballot a proposed law strengthening campaign reform. Amother other things, it would require that all contributions of $25 or more be made public.

It will take about a month for the secretary of state's office to verify the signatures.

"People wanted to sign the petitions when we told them what they were about," Hoblitzelle said. "This was the time for it."

Frank E. Nutt, chairman for Missourians for Honest Elections, said nine out of 10 persons signed the petitions after being asked to.

Nutt predicted the bill would carry in November by a margin of "three or four to one."

Vossmeyer estimated about 3,000 persons helped on the drive, including Gov. Christopher S. Bond, Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps and two dozen legislators of both parties. He said 2,798 petitions were distributed.

The campaign drive received $13,000 in contributions, mostly in small denominations.

Vossmeyer announced the drive May 31 and it started the following week. He said he had doubts that "we would make it, but we continued working and the response was just great."

Also on the November ballot, if certified by the secretary of state, will be an initiative measure to repeal the Sunday Blue Law ban against sale of non essentials on Sunday.

"There are occasions when people have to go outside the legislative process," Vossmeyer said, "but I think the petition process should be used sparingly.

The long and complicated bill is a combination of proposals in the House last session. A compromise bill failed in the closing minutes of the 1974 session after similar proposals had failed the previous two sessions.

Vossmeyer said if major flaws are found in the bill, the legislature can amend it, but "we can beat down any attempts to kill or gut the law."

Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick has opposed the petition drive because he thinks the legislature should be given another chance and because confidential retainer fees of over $500 would have to be made public by candidates. Doctors and lawyers should not have to disclose such fees, he said.

Kirkpatrick, the state's chief elections officer, has said he will not certify signatures of unregistered voters, but Vossmeyer said, "We attempted to get signatures only from registered voters and that made our work more difficult."

The proposed law would require that all campaign contributions of more than $25 be made public but all contributions must be recorded. It sets up an elections commission to be nominated by the state Supreme Court and named by the governor, to enforce the law.

Candidates could not receive more than $35,000 from their immediate family for each statewide election, or spend more than $35,000 out of their own pocket.

One person or group could not give more than $50,000 in one year to all candidates. One person or committee could not give more than $10,000 to any one candidate for one election.

Labor unions and corporations could not contribute directly. Voluntary organizations made up of union members or businessmen could contribute.

A candidate could not accept any anonymous contribution of more than $5 from one person and anonymous contributions could not total more than $500.

Middleman says profit gnawed away by costs

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The middleman in the chain that brings beef from the ranch to the shopping cart is getting more of your dollar than ever before. But he says his profit is being gnawed away by everything from higher labor costs to more expensive meat saws.

Industry spokesmen say wages and fringe benefits are 10 to 15 per cent higher than last year; the light bill is anywhere from 10 to 60 per cent higher; paper bags and other packaging are up 25 per cent or more; and those meat saws are almost 16 per cent more expensive than they were last year.

Elias Paul is president of John Morrell Co., one of the nation's largest packing houses.

He buys the steer at the feedlot, slaughters it and sells it to the supermarket which sells it to you.

The latest Agriculture Department' marketbasket showed the price of farm-produced food increased three-tenths of 1 per cent in May.

That meant that on an annual basis, it cost $1,733 to feed a hypothetical family of 3.2 persons — up $5 from April.

The government said that if middlemen had passed along the savings resulting from lower prices paid to farmers, the consumer would have saved $34 on an annual basis.

Morrell, a part of United Brands, had 1973 sales of $1.25 billion. Profits, said Paul, were "less than 1 per cent ... The company has never made as much as a cent per pound."

The packer got 7.4 cents of the dollar you spent for beef this April, compared to 6.2 cents a year ago. The industry claims the money is going for increased costs.

Paul said he could not provide specific expense figures for the beginning of 1974 compared to previous years. He said that 75 cents out of every dollar that Morrell spends to produce the meat for shipment to supermarkets goes for the meat itself.

Half of the rest, he said, goes for labor, adding that wages and fringe benefits for some employes have risen $1 an hour in the past year. The average industry wage is $8.29, compared to $7.41 last year.

Paul said earnings for the beginning of 1974 are below last year, but he declined to give the figures.

The animal that Morrell slaughters is sold to supermarkets like Pantry Pride-Food Fair, the nation's fourth-largest chain in terms of sales.

Supermarkets are getting 30.6 cents of your beef dollar, compared to 26.7 cents last year.

Clarence Adamy, head of the National Association of Food Chains, recently urged all retail stores, to offer more specials, to move the meat to the consumer, creating a greater demand, getting rid of the oversupply and pushing up wholesale prices.

The supermarkets say they already have been bringing down the price of meat, even if the consumer doesn't think so. They argue that government figures don't take into account the time lag between a drop at the wholesale level and a decline at the supermarket counter.

"We have made sure that consumers do get the benefit of lower wholesale prices by lowering our retail meat prices," said Harold Friedland, vice president of Pantry Pride-Food Fair.

Pantry Pride had a net profit of just over $2 million last year, about one-tenth of one per cent. One reason for the below-average figures was the closing of unprofitable stores and the loss of $4 million in assets. This year, the chain expects sales of $2.3 billion and increased profits.

WOMEN IN THE HALLS OF IVY

The sweeping anti-sex discrimination guidelines for the nation's schools announced recently by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare elicited speculation on such things as separate showering facilities for mixed athletic teams. Actually, however, the real issues are more basic and the impact on the country's educational system will be substantial.

The proposed regulations will affect virtaully all public school systems in the United States, as well as nearly 2,500 post- secondary schools receiving Federal funds. At stake is the Federal share of the nation's budget for education, which this year is nearly $10 billion out of $96 billion. Non-complying schools stand to lose their share of Federal funds.

"We realize that this Federal effort has raised some understandable apprehensions," said HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger, "but we believe that sex discrimination in Federally assisted educational programs or activities can be eliminated, and eliminated without undue controversy or hardship in the academic community or elsewhere."

A look at the status of women in higher education illustrates clearly that more is involved than women's lib rhetoric. During the 1962-63 school year, 19% of faculty members in four- year institutions were women. Ten years later, after a concerted effort to raise that figure, only 20.6% were women.

More telling yet, however, is an apparently widespread practice of paying women faculty members substantially less than their male counterparts — an average of $2,000 less annually, according to a report by the Carnegie Commission on Women.

Pushed by various laws and other local pressures, campuses across the country have begun to rectify their wage practices. Although raises for women intended to bring them to par have averaged about $1,000, there have been some spectacular exceptions: the Univesity of Arkansas, for example, awarded one woman a raise of $13,000 and another $10,000. The University of Montana recently paid $88,000 in back pay and salary increases to 39 women faculty members.

It is only fair that one individual, male or female, receive the same wage as another for performing the same job. At the same time, however, it is vital that new laws intended to give women equality don't end up by establishing new systems of inequality.

JAPAN'S OWN NO FAULT

The Japanese are not yet completely Americanized, but they're getting there.

If a man slips on a wet floor in a Japanese office building, for example, it's almost certain that he won't sue the building's owners. In fact, the owners probably won't even carry liability insurance for that kind of contingency.

"In Japan, the individual almost never sues a company for such a reason. And if he does, he rarely wins."

That information comes from Sadaaki Kittaki of the Chiyoda Fire and Marine Insurance Co., who is in this country to learn American insurance methods, which differ quite a bit from those practiced in Japan. He reports on some of the differences in the newsletter of the CNA company of Chicago.

The hesitancy of the Japanese to initiate lawsuits is just one of their characteristics. Another is the traditionally close, almost familylike relations between people, especially in the smaller cities and towns. There is almost no bonding system at all but rather a greater reliance on mutual trust.

There are no "sign now and you're insured" deals by agents, either. Policy coverage does not begin in Japan until the premium is received by the company, and Japanese law is very firm in requiring that when premiums are not paid, a policy automatically becomes invalid. A company that chooses to be lenient can find itself in serious trouble with the government.

In sum, Japanese law and custom continue to put heavy responsibility on the consumer. However, says Kittaki, in insurance as in so many other things, Japanese laws and customs tend to follow the American lead.

Although both product liability and medical malpractice insurance are still rare, lawsuits in these areas are increasing.

THE LAND USE FUROR

When the House defeated the Land Use Planning Act of 1974 in a close vote the other day there were enough howls of dismay to suggest that it had just voted 211-204 to repeal motherhood.

The Sierra Club fired off an urgent Telex to editorial page editors accusing the House of "dereliction of duty." The New York Times, as is its wont, blamed it all on Watergate politics. And Senator Jackson as is his wont, promised to use his considerable parliamentary skills to revive land use in the form of a rider to some must bill.

But those of us who are less impassioned on the issue might conclude that the House acted with considerable wisdom. There is little persuasive evidence that it struck any kind of really damaging blow at environmental interests. And on the positive side, it may have headed off a movement towards over- planning that could, over time, seriously damage economic growth.

Fundamentally, the defeated bill would have authorized $800 million for grants to states to help them set up "comprehensive land use planning." The federal government would have had considerable power, of course, to decide how the money would be put to use.

Assuming that the federal government can afford $800 million, which is not a safe assumption these days, it may well be that the bill would have achieved some positive results. However, it might also have encouraged the kind of forced draft planning that soon would have had every acre of some states tied up in red tape that would create long delays for people looking for a place to live or conduct a business.

There is no persuasive evidence that any such forced draft is necessary. The states already are taking initiatives in land use planning. And other federal laws, most importantly the environmental protection and coastal zone management acts, already put strict limitations on the kind of land uses that cause "quality of life" problems that disturb environmentalists.

Given the cosmic effects that land use regulations can have, it seems to use more sensible to address land use problems on an "as needed" and "where needed" basis, rather than though some grandiose federal initiative. If the Colorado plan works, it might be something other states can emulate. The same Delaware. But there is no point in everyone getting locked into something that doesn't work just because of pressures to spend federal money.

We already have seen some of the consequences that flow from the difficulties oil companies have in finding sites for new refineries and utilities have in siting power plants. These were not totally responsible for the energy crisis, but they played a role. Some businessmen think a national land use policy that would clearly authorize such sites would be a good thing. But we doubt that the defeated bill was headed quite that way. As things now stand, states individually weigh the drawbacks of attracting industry against its benefits, which probably is a good thing.

At any rate, we don't feel any great sense of loss. And it seems to us that the House deserves some praise for knowing when to say no. -- The Wall Street Journal.

During a hike in the woods a troop of boy scouts came across an abandoned section of railroad track. Each, in turn, tried walking the rails but eventually lost his balance and tumbled off.

Suddenly two of the boys, after considerable whispering, offered to bet that they could both walk the entire length of the track without falling off. Challenged to make good their boast, the two boys jumped up on opposite rails, extended a hand to balance each other, and walked the entire section of track with no difficulty whatever.

There, in a nutshell, is the principle of moderen business and community living. The day of the hermit and the lone wolf are gone forever. We do things better, we produce more, and we live better by helping each other. The fellow who lends a helping hand benefits himself at the same time as he helps the other fellow.

The reverse is also true. When we don't help each other, when we don't cooperate. the whole system starts to rattle and shake.

The difference between a good company and a poor one, an effective department and an inefficient one, is often reflected in the co-operation, or lack of it, among the people who work there. When people help each other, freely and voluntarily, there's a spirit of teamwork that makes a department or company really go—a pleasure to be associated with. When there's no cooperation—no spirit of the helping hand freely given—what might have been pleasant jobs become grudging chores.

Do you recall when Edmund Hillary and his native guide, Tenzing, made their historic climb of Mt. Everest? Coming down from the peak Hillary suddenly lost his footing. Tenzing held the line taut and kept them both from falling by digging his ax into the ice. Later Tenzing refused any special credit for saving Hillary's life; he considered it a routine part of the job. As he put it: "Mountain climbers always help each each other."

Should the rest of us be any different?

NOW IS THE TIME

When the railroads went before the Interstate Commerce Commission to ask for "...selective freight rate increases" to help offset inflationary cost increases, their petition stated, "Having in mind the pressures upon the industry to meet new safety standards, provide new levels of equipment and service, advance the art of railroading with new information and control systems and achieve other major changes, it is apparent that deterioration of the financial situation simply cannot be permitted to take place."

This rail rate increase petition highlights again the urgency for action on the Surface Transportation Act of 1971 submitted to Congress last year. The Act deals with basic problems of surface transportation that have been building up for several decades as far as the railroads are concerned. Most of these problems are traceable to a regulatory system no longer applicable to common carrier transportation. It was for this reason that other carriers, the regulated water and motor carriers, joined with the rails in pushing for passage of the Surface Transportation Act or 1971. It is vitally important that there be public support of the transportation industry in its call for new regulatory laws and the enactment of other needed corrective measures. In no other way can regulated rail, water and motor carriers meet transport demands of the future.

Now is the time to assure vital transport progress by supporting urgently needed new legislation-- legislation designed to unleash the long repressed capacity of private enterprise to exert the initiative upon which tomorrow's transportation industry must be built.

GOOD ADVICE FROM NEWZEALAND

Ill-advised campaigns, aimed at persuading the entire population to abstain from eating certain nutritious foods that for centuries have been part of the human diet, have posed problems for the dairy and meat industry. It has been said that these foods contribute to the risk of heart disease. Impressive evidence that normal people should adhere to normal balanced diets has been widely overlooked in the furor. Typical of this evidence is a little noticed Report of the Royal Society of New Zealand which was commissioned by New Zealand's Minister of Science, "to make a critical examination of the available information on factors involved in the causation of coronary artery disease..."

The Report, which came out after two years of study, said that, "So far as the general population is concerned, the present state of knowledge does not justify advising any major changes in dietary habits aimed specifically at reducing the incidence of coronary heart disease. It is considered that this objective can be best achieved by adherence to the type of well-balanced diet which would be advised on general medical grounds for maintenance of good health...." The Report said specifically that efforts to avoid "... normal dietary fats are not justified." Commenting on the Report, one authority noted, "... it is one thing to give a patient advice which, although erroneous, may indirectly help in his recovery. It is quite another matter when this same advice, or for that matter even advice which might be correst in a particular set of circumstances, is extended to the population a large."

It is time the U.S. public took a hard look at the current wave of attacks on virtually everything we eat, wear or use--before we find ourselves shirtless, jobless and hungry.

WHO WANTS A GIANT NEW FEDERAL HEALTH PLAN?

Left- siders are beating the drums again for a giant new federal health insurance plan which is supposed to protect everybody from "catastrophic" medical costs. Getting into the act as usual, the Nixon Administration has come up with its own plan to try to steal their thunder.

Almost every recent valid attempt to sample public opinion in the United States has shown inflation to be the top cause of concern. By contrast, few are worried about inadequate medical care.

The cost of the Administration's version of the new health care plan is estimated at $6 billion more in federal funds, along with payments of from $7 to $9 billion a year by business. The new plan borrows the tricky, dishonest system of social security whereby the employer is required to pay a large part of the program's costs for his employees. The actual result of such a requirement can only cause the employer to hire fewer employees and to pay less, thus adding to unemployment, and to raise prices.

The administrative burdens of trying to run such a program would swamp an already overloaded and inefficient bureaucracy. This is a scheme to extend government and increase inflationary deficit spending. The time has passedwhen most of our people can be fooled into believing that such expansion is really in their interst. HLH

Terrorists Under Umbrella: Special Agents Using James Bond Techniques To Block 'Liberation' Armies' Violence here

WASHINGTON — A special scientificallly trained network of coutner- terrorist operatives has been strung around the U.S. This is the explosive season. A long fuse reaching from Buenos Aires to the U.S. has been lit by the Peronista-political dramatics there. For on the terrorist front, as the Argentine goes, so does the U.S., according to the specialists.

Thus, experts in a score of American agencies -- some seemingly remote from the "liberation" front -- are on the alert. The counter- terror operation, carefully keeping banks, big industrial plants, power stations, ports, courts, oil company offices and nuclear power plants under surveillance, is an intricate hush- hush network reaching from the White House to the FBI, CIA and even to the National Bureau of Standards and the Post Office.

They watch for saboteurs. They trail the ad hoc "revolutionary" and "liberation" organizations. Oddly, the federal security chiefs can't see the Symbionese Liberation Army as typical of the others, which are far more sophisticated, dedicated and given to far less national melodramatics.

There are at least 21 terrorist groups now being probed by the FBI alone. They have a membership of some 15,000, according to Assistant FBI Director W. Raymond Wannall, in charge of the Bureau's Intelligence Division. That's a lot of people- power. And it takes a large number of agents to probe the revolutionaries carefully these days -- for any misstep would be flashed across the media as an invasion of left- wing rights and privacy.

Not far behind the Bureau is the U.S. Postal Service. At least 10 low- emission X-ray machines have been strategically placed by the Service across the U.S. Postal inspectors -- a very tough low-profile band of men -- have 150 hand- held metal detectors at key postal sites. And 44 inspectors have received intense training in all forms of bomb investigation.

There is a virtually unknown Postal Service Security Force of some 2,644 uniformed personnel providing protective services at 73 major postal facilities and 48 full and part- time federal court locations across the nation -- including the Supreme Court which recently received so-called "gas postcards."

There's a James Bond type counter- terror operation run by the National Bureau of Standards. It's quietly developing performance standards for security devices against theft by the underworld or the underground of fissionable material from nuclear reactors. These new devices are aimed at the equipment the terrorists would have to use to protect themselves against the impact of radiation of any fissionable material they may be attempting to steal. Terrorists trying to snatch the fissionable material would have to carry special equipment to avoid deadly injury to themselves.

Thus the government is moving to counteract those who may be planning to steal "in a paper bag" enough of the radioactive stuff to make a crude atomic bomb.

All this is linked with the FBI's "wide ranging training programs" too equip police officers for a fight against the violence, the bombings and the terrorism which peppered the U.S. and then suddenly appeared to stop. No authority believes it is over. Quite to the contrary.

Thus, quietly, the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism chaired by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, has created a "Working Group" of top- level government executives. It has developed a system of "instant" contact with the White House, the FBI, the CIA and the Pentagon. It operates on a national and international front.

It has developed a very tough system of screening visas of those seeking to enter the U.S. This screening has resulted in keeping at least one notorious terrorist group's chief out of the U.S. Under the direction of Ambassador Lewis Hoffacker the Working Group keeps in tight tough with other governments, the International Police (Interpol) and he counterparts abroad of the FBI and the CIA.

Rarely before has there been such a vigilance network. Sabotage is one thing, but the elusive, almost frivolous violence oriented groups are another. It is difficult to infiltrate them. They hide behind such titles as Americans For Justice, Citizens Committee to Demilitarize Industry, Purple Sunshine Clan, Red Willow Family, Perfect Park Home Grown Garden Society, Quarter Moon Tribes, Black Afro Militant Movement, Brothers United, volunteers of America, and the New Year's Gang, according to the federal investigators.

And it is forgotten that the old Weather Poeple crowd, which bombed and raided, are still fugitives.

There is talk in counter-terrorist circles that the smart-alecky bomb- planting youths, the professional operatives and the actual revolutionary leaders have been meeting to explore creating one big "umbrella" group to coordinate the bombings. And thus knock out strategic plants and power stations, kidnap key executives and attempt to disrupt the U.S. as they have Argentina.

Such an umbrella coordinating terrorist organization could blast the U.S. -- from corner to corner -- unless they get entangled in the new counter- terrorist network.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Klassen's Dazzling Display

WASHINGTON — In response to our investigative series on postal abuses, the postal authorities have been fencing with the facts. They have put on a dazzling display of dodging and thrusting.

We reported, for example, that Postmaster General Ted Klassen had frequently dispatched his chauffeur to pick up his wife and bring her to postal headquarters to dine with him in his private kitchen, with the taxpayers providing the cook and waiter.

The Postal Service assured inquiring congressmen that Mrs. Klassen "rarely has had lunch with the postmaster general." Quite true. She dines -- not lunches -- with him, as we reported.

We also reported that Klassen's favorite chauffeur (he has two) ran so many overtime errands that he doubled his regular salary. Responded the Postal Service: The chauffeur is entitled to overtime pay "on the many occasions when Mr. Klassen is called upon to fulfill postal engagements outside of regular working hours."

A typical occasion took place on Sunday, June 16, after we had written our story. A government chauffeur drove the Klassens to a department store where they purchased some curtain rods. The chauffeur waited outside, in a no- parking zone, the car's engine idling to power the air conditioner. When the Klassens emerged triumphantly with the curtain rods, the chauffeur popped out, deposited the cuttain rods in the trunk and drove off with the Klassens in a car that had been kept cool for them.

Most of our charges, of course, were more serious. We reported, for example, that Klassen collected a secret $22,917.67 fee from the Martin E. Segal Company in 1971 while he was on the Postal Board of Governors.

The previous year, he had personally intervened as deputy postmaster general to award a contract that the Segal firm sought for a client. Thanks to Klassen, the Segal company was able to collect a generous 15 per cent fee. Then Klassen, after his promotion to the Postal Board, accepted a $22,917.67 consultant's fee from the same firm.

Klassen, meanwhile, moved up the final notch on the postal ladder and became postmaster general. Threafter, the Segal firm received a large postal contract to do a life insurance study.

Klassen has now issued an indignant denial. He did not receive any "secret" fees, he has protested righteously. But if you read his denial closely, you will find he does not deny taking the money but denies only that it was secret.

No one on the Board of Governors knew Klassen had taken a fee from a postal contractor. We interviewed people at the highest level of the Postal Service; they had no knowledge of the payments. Even Martin E. Segal himself, now retired from his firm, told us he didn't know that the firm he founded had paid Klassen.

Not until his associate Jack Cloherty confronted him with the facts did Klassen concede that he had pocketed the money. We believe the transaction, indeed, was secret. But the real point is that Klassen collected $22,917.67 from a firm that had received postal benefits.

Here are a few more examples of Post Office hair-splitting:

-- The Postal Service denies that Klassen's office was "baronial," despite the fact that it is equipped with its own private dining area and a day bed. He also shares with the Postal Board an 11th floor penthouse, replete with oak doors, plush carpeting, fancy chandeliers and a $50,000 kitchen. The board meets there once a month; it is available to Klassen all the time.

--Klassen's press aides originally told us that only dignitaries received fancy stamp albums from the postmaster general for Christmas. They had to trim their sails, however, when we discovered that Klassen's personal friends had also received stamp albums.

--The postal poobahs, labeled as false our charge that the mails are moving slower now than they did three years ago. They cited their own studies but did not mention that the studies were manipulated to make the mail look like it moved faster. Sometimes the mail was specially handled so as to move more quickly for the benefit of the studies.

--The Post Office denied our charge that the Bulk Mail network had run into cost overruns. Since the denial, however, the House Post Office Committee has verified our charges.

The Postal Service hasn't even attempted to refute our findings that Klassen has packed the postal payroll with his old friends. Many hold do-nothing jobs, pulling down as much as $40,000 a year, while postmasters around the nation are being told to tighten their belts.

Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., has now called Klassen and his cronies on the carpet for their wastrel ways. He might also find it instructive to study their dodges and denials as a lesson in the Nixon Administration specialty of government by public relations.

Ann Landers

Love is learned best by example

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing this for "Been Down That Road," the woman whose husband was always after her for sex. She complained because he made "suggestive" remarks in front of the children.

You could have done better with that answer, Ann. I know, because I was raised in a strict, religious family where there was no sign of affection between my father and mother. It had a terrible effect on my sister and me.

Our parents never exchanged one word of endearment. There were no pet names or even a pat on the hand (much less the fanny). It was as if my father was a roomer and my mother was a housekeeper.

Children learn from example. When they see no sign of tenderness or caring they get the unspoken message that something is wrong with showing affection. They grow up inhibited and find it difficult in later years to express affection to others.

Both my sister and I had to have several years of therapy before we could open up and accept love from a member of the opposite sex.

Please tell your readers that parents should never be ashamed to show love for one another. Encourage them to smooch a little in front of the kids. My husband and I did and it was the best sex education in the world. -- Reverse Strategy

Dear R.S.: Bravo for a fine letter. I agree --100 per cent. Love IS best taught by example. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the woman whose husband was sterile and got her father- in- law to get her pregnant cracked me up.

My wife Irma and I were talking about it last nig'ıt and she asked me an odd question. (I should tell you first that we have three healthy kids.) Irma said, "If I hadn't been able to have any children, would you have agreed to get my sister Ellen pregnant so our child would have genes from my side of the family?" (It so happens that Ellen is four years younger than Irma, single, and quite a dish.) I thought awhile and said, "Yes, I'd agree."

All hell broke loose. My wife kept me up half the night yelling because I said yes. I tried to remind her that SHE was the one who had dreamed up the question, which was crazy to begin with beause we already have a nice family. Nothing could quiet her.

If it's O.K. for a woman to get pregnant by her husband's relative, why doesn't it work the other way 'round? -- Puzzled

Dear P.: I didn't say it was O.K. Go back and read my answer again. I'm against adultery no matter who brings it up at bedtime.

Dear Ann Landers: I thought I was a social drinker, but it turns out I'm a social drunk. I don't believe I'm a real alcoholic because after I go off the deep end I can't look at booze for two or three days. And I don't use booze as a crutch, either. It's just that when I do have a drink I can't stop until I'm smashed.

I know darned well I must quit drinking completely. Can you give me a few words of advice that might help me, or must I go to A.A.? -- Lauretta From Chicago

Dear L.: Anyone who says, "When I do have a drink I can't stop until I'm smashed," needs more than a few words of advice. Go to A.A.

The great accessories

Great assessories are the final touch, the last step to a totally pulled together look for fall. Leathers, tweeds, knits, natural looking jewelry, belts and scarves are featured.

Good investments

A sweater vest (above) is an investment that will go a long way this fall. They are available in patterns and solids, and can be worn with a shirt and pants, a blouse and skirt or over last year's shirtdress. Softness if the message in all these skirts and blouses, right. NMC finals set Saturday

PARMA — Lilbourn battled its way into the finals of the New Madrid county Little League baseball tournament here Thursday night, claiming a 7-4 victory over New Madrid to advance into the title bout against Parma Saturday night at 7 p.m.

Rain forced postponement of the Jr. Babe Ruth encounter between Marston and Lilbourn and threw the tournament finals to Saturday night. Tonight's schedule has Marston and Lilbourn settling their contest at 7:30 with the winner advancing to a 8:30 date against New Madrid for the Jr. Babe Ruth championship Saturday night. Marston led 3-0 after one and one half innings of play Thursday night.

Lilbourn rallied from a 3-1 deficit in the last of the third inning and then charged ahead with a big three run fourth despite being out-hit by New Madrid 5-4.

Four errors opened the door for four Lilbourn runs while Clark was holding them to four singles. Palmer homered and Sullenger and T. St. Mary tripled for New Madrid in their losing cause.

Cubs cool Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Baseball's Chicago Cubs have reached the game's traditional July 4 milestone 7½ games back in the National League East, but Manager Whitey Lockman sees hope.

A 3-2 victory Thursday over the front-running St. Louis Cardinals was the Cubs' fifth on an eight-game trip, and each was by one run.

"Obviously you better win your share of those kind," observed Lockman, whose young club also made the most of one scoring inning.

"But the division race is wide open," he insisted. "Not only our club is in it, but there are five others who'll stay bunched all the way."

Right-hander Steve Stone, 3-2, who had never beaten the Cardinals, was the Chicago man of the hour in a strong starting performance.

Shelled by the same team May 17, the 5-foot-10 pitcher restricted the Cards to a single earned run through 7 2-3 innings and let Oscar Zamora mop up.

The keys as viewed by the mustachioed Stone were disposing of dangerous Reggie Smith four times at bat and retiring Lou Brock in a sixth-inning pinch-hit role.

"Don't tell me about Smith," sighed Stone, who was acquired by the Cubs last December in the deal that sent Ron Santo to the Chicago White Sox.

"I was in the other league with him," he recalled, "and he hit one at least eight miles off me. I had a few coming against him."

And of Brock, who bounced into a force play to thwart a budding Cardinals threat, Stone noted, "I was glad to get him on the first pitch. I remember a lot of times he's drilled the first one right by me."

St. Louis' scoring came in the third inning on a walk, Bake McBride's single and a grounder and in the sixth courtesy of a Vic Harris error.

But the bursts were too little to offset a three-run Cubs rally in the fourth featuring Andre Thornton's run-scoring double and a run-producing single by rookie Steve Swisher.

Despite the defeat, the Cardinals came through the day owning their division's lead at 2½ games for only the third time in 24 years on July 4.

The other occasions were during pennant-winning seasons in 1967 and '68, which were small consolation to losing pitcher John Curtis, 4-9.

"It's tremendously disappointing to be with a team you know can win and not do anything," Curtis lamented.

Jackson unbeaten

Scott City grouped behind two time Missouri all-stater Jeff Jackson of Benton and clinched a tie for first place in the district American Legion league, blasting Poplar Bluff 15-4.

The fire-balling righthander scattered seven hits, issued five walks and fanned 13 to run his season record to a spotless 5-0. Besides handling the pitching, Jackson also led the team's 10 hit barrage with a pair of doubles and drove home five runs. Rob Killion and Mike Schaffer had two hits apiece for the winners.

Scott City has won 11 of 12 games this season, losing an early season encounter at Farmington.

McSpadden makes debut

Galen McSpadden, Southeast Missouri's latest baseball star to turn professional, got into two games in the Northwest class A league at Walla Walla, Wash. for the Padres and came out with one defeat.

The hard throwing lefthander from Puxico, Mo., worked nine innings in his debut, allowing seven hits and three walks while fanning nine. His earned run mark was a cool 3.00.

Randy Smith of Arbyrd, playing with the Salinas Angels in the California class A division added his eighth win of the season last week, working eight innings, allowing six hits while fanning five. He failed to issue a walk and has given up only 21 in 78 innings of work.

Mark Littell of Gideon, was inactive last week for the Omaha Royals in the class AAA American Association. He remained with a 3-5 season record, working 77 innings, allowing 63 hits with 32 walks and 42 strikeouts. His ERA remained at a respectable 2.56.

Fisk's Steve Coulson, competing for the West Haven Yanks in the Eastern double A division, became the league leader in hits with 66 after an eight for 23 performance last week. The former Three Rivers Community College star has a .280 average on the season with four doubles, three triples and four home runs with 26 runs batted in.

Homecoming planned

During the years that First Assembly of God has been in Sikeston, many of the young people of the church have felt called to enter full- time Christian ministry. This weekend the church will honor these ministers with a homecoming celebration.

Twenty- four men and women have been involved and have left their home church and the Sikeston area to fulfill this ministry. Several of these have married companions who were not residents of the Sikeston area. If it were possible for all of these to return at one time, nearly 40 people would be involved.

A time of fellowship and renewing of acquaintances is scheduled Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the church fellowship hall for the returning ministers, church members and friends.

The Sunday School hour, beginning at 9:30 a.m., will be a time of interest as these ministers will be involved and will visit some of the classes.

A fellowship dinner will be served by the church during the noon hour Sunday.

The ministers will participate in each of the services, including the youth service at 5:30 p.m. and the evangelistic service at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Some of those coming from the greatest distances are: the Rev. and Mrs. Orvil Holden of Gillete, Wyo., the Rev. and Mrs. Jerry Smith of Maryville, Tenn., the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Jackson and the Rev. and Mrs. Gary Denbow of Springfield and the Rev. and Mrs. John Standridge of St. Louis.

Many area residents will remember these and others who will attend the homecoming and will want to share the fellowship time on Saturday, says the Rev. Loren Wooten, pastor.

Music group to appear

The New Song, a contemporary gospel music group from Paducah, Ky., will appear at 7:30 p.m. Monday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1100 N. Main St., in connection with the interdenominational video tape teaching program being presented at the church weekly by Maranatha Christian Center of Paducah.

During the week of July 22-25 boys and girls ages 13-20 will attend. This group will also observe the same schedule for registration and departure.

The Rev. Alonzo Dale, program chairman, announces that four college students from across the state will be serving on the camp staff under the direction of the Baptist Student Union of the Missouri Baptist Convention.

Mrs. Levella Baker of Chaffee will serve as the director of food preparation and serving. Local pastors of the association will serve as camp pastors, Bible study teachers and recreational activities directors, and the Rev. Ralph Buckley will supervise sports activities.

Wayne Hicks to speak Sunday at Eastside

The Rev. D. Wayne Hicks will be the special speaker at Eastside Church of the Nazarene, located at the corner of Ralph Avenue and Betty Street Sunday at both the 10:35 a.m. and the 7 p.m. worship services, according to the Rev. C. Conrad Carrigan, pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Hicks graduated from Mid-America Nazarene College at Olathe, Kan., May 27 with a bachelor of arts degree in religion. He plans to enter the pastoral ministry.

THE BIBLE

141. David Refuses to Kill Saul

When Saul returned from battling the Philistines, he took 3,000 men in the wilderness of Engedi. It so happened that Saul stumbled into a cave where David and his men were in hiding. David's men whispered that the Lord had brought Saul here so that David could avenge himself.

Quietly, David crept forward and slit off the hem of Saul's robe, but he regretted it almost immediately, saying "...The Lord forbid that I should do this thing unto my master, the Lord's anointed, to stretch forth my hand against him, seeing he is the anointed of the Lord." (I Samuel 24:6)

When Saul left the cave, David ran after him, and bowing low, showed him that he had repaid evil with goodness. Then David held up the hem of the robe to convince Saul that he had no malice in his heart. And Saul said, "...I know well that thou shalt surely be king, and that the kingdom of Israel be established in thine hand. Swear now therefore unto me by the Lord, that thou wilt not cut off my seed after me, and that thou wilt not destroy my name out of my father's house. And David sware unto Saul..." Fire blamed on fireworks

Firemen extinguished a small fire on the Frisco railroad tracks behind Riggs Wholesale Co., 380 N. West St., shortly after 9 p.m. Thursday.

Firemen said the fire was caused by fireworks landing on a cross-tie. There was no damage.

At 1:47 p.m. Thursday, firemen were called to the U Pump It service station on East Malone Ave. when a car owned by Jerry McDawell of Charleston caught fire.

The car received minor damage to the hood, firemen said.

A false alarm sent firemen to the Dutch Pantry Restaurant, Highway 62 East about 9 p.m. Wednesday. Someone saw flames from a burning wheatfield behind the building and apparently thought restaurant was on fire, firemen said.

At 10 p.m. Wednesday, firemen were called to a weed fire in the 200 block of Ralph Street. The fire was apparently started by fireworks, firemen said.

$200 stolen from Kelletts

About $200 to $250 and a cash register were taken early today from Kellett Oil Co. service station, 901 S. Main St., while the attendent was pumping gas for a customer.

Police were called at 2:39 a.m. today by Earnest Taylor, who said he was out of the office for a few minutes assisting a customer and when he returned he found the cash register was gone.

Police said a back door to the building had apparently been forced open.

Charleston man guilty on drug charge; fined $50

CHARLESTON — George Rodney Drury of Charleston was found guilty of possession and being under the influence of a certain controlled substance (marijuana) in a trial by court Wednesday and was assessed a $50 fine, plus court costs by Magistrate Judge T. J. Brown Jr.

Witnesses called by Prosecuting Attorney W. Clifton Banta Jr. included Lt. Ben Stampley, Police Chief Bob Ritchey, Roy Cox of Charleston Route One and Robert Briner of Cape Girardeau, director of the crime laboratory.

Diane Cox of Charleston was called as a defense witness.

According to testimony from Cox, he went to the home of Mrs. Diane Cox in Charleston the night of June 14 looking for his grandson. Cox said a man, who he could not identify as Drury, was lying on the front porch. He said he tried to rouse him and after failing to do so, went to the police department and informed them that the man was lying there and he thought he might be sick.

Lt. Stampley, the arresting officer, testified he went to the home, found Drury on the front porch and after considerable effort, he and an auxiliary officer managed to get Drury to his feet and into the police car. While trying to awaken Drury, Stampley said he saw a bag, which appeared to contain marijuana, sticking out of the left front pocket of Drury's pants.

The bag of marijuana was taken to Cape Girardeau by Chief Ritchey and according to Robert Briner, who analyzed the contents, the bag contained 6.6 grams of marijuana.

Defense counsel objected to the bag of marijuana being entered as evidence and asked that the charge be dismissed on the grounds that the arrest was not valid, since no crime was committed in the presence of the arresting officer and there was no basis for a search.

According to Mrs. Cox, she had been dating Drury at the time of his arrest and although she was not at home on the night in question, she had no objections to him being on her porch asleep.

Trial for James Randolph Baker of Poplar Bluff, who entered a not guilty plea to a careless and imprudent driving charge, was set for Aug. 15 and he was released on his own recognizance.

James Henry Vinson of Columbus, Ky. was sentenced to 30 days in jail on a driving while intoxicated charge and ten days for failure to have an operator's license.

Gloria Swift of Wyatt entered a not guilty plea to a misdemeanor stealing charge and trial date was scheduled for July 11. Miss Swift, arrested June 25 and accused of stealing $37 from P. J. Chapman of Wyatt, remains in custody under $500 bond.

Richard Honorable of Chicago, Ill. was fined $150 plus court costs on a driving while intoxicated charge and was given until July 25 to pay the balance of his fine in the amount of $24.50.

Judge Brown issued a commitment order for Richard Neal Emanuel of Charleston who failed to pay his fine of $50 and costs levied on a June 13 speeding charge. Emanuel had paid $15 on his fine.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Jo Ann Biggers of East Prairie, who failed to appear on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license.

Cases continued to July 11 included: Collis Ray Haddock of Bertrand, driving while intoxicated, driving while operator's license was revoked and leaving the scene of an accident; and Herman Moss Jr. of East Prairie, operating a vehicle while license was revoked.

Speeding charges against the following were continued to July 25: James Phillip Bell Jr. of Adamasville, Ala.; Fred Kirk Blaize of Vincennes, Ind.; Perry Wallace Fowler of Uniontown, Ky., and Randall Eugene Morse of Mexquite, Tex.

Appearing earlier this week in Magistrate Court were: Roger Audie Brown, speeding, $27; Jessie James Cooper, speeding, $33; Brenda Kay Jones and Ronald R. Jones, violation of the wildlife code, $26 each; Robert Joseph Bailey, expired operator's license and speeding, $63; and Willie James Robinson, speeding, $41.

WATCHWORDS FOR BOATING SAFETY

Yes, people actually do fall out of boats. In fact, thousands of them every year. It happens when they are standing up — get too excited after hooking a big fish — thrown out while crossing another boat's wake at the wrong angle — riding on the bow of a boat going at high speed and for many other reasons. Here's a list of things to do if somebody from your boat falls overboard — not necessarily in the right order. 1. Get something into the water that floats and the person can hang on to — a life preserver is best but don't wait. 2. Make a turn at slow speed back to where the person is in the water. 3. Approach with the bow heading into the wind so you won't run him over — you don't have brakes. 4. Stop the engine and help the person back in from the rear of the boat. Never risk diving in after a person unless the victim is seriously hurt or unconscious!

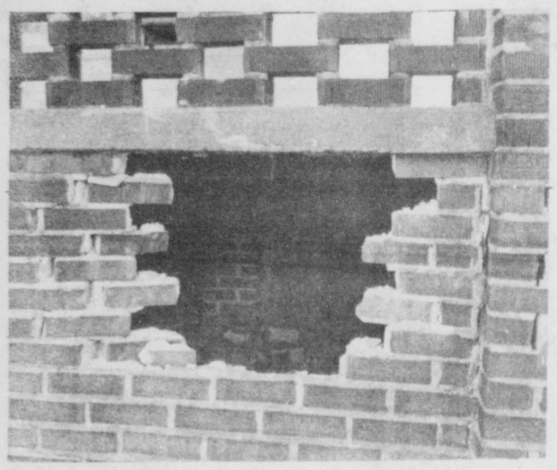
Car runs into home

Eugene Ray Walker, 50, of Houston, Tex. drove his car into the Stonewall A. Lockhart home, 300 E. Kathleen Ave., about 7 a.m. today, knocking a hole,(bottom photo, in the brick siding around a porch. Police backed the car off the lawn, top photo, and impounded it at the police station. Walker was arrested for driving while intoxicated and destroying private property. (Daily Standard photos)



Authorities recover drugs; 2 men arrested

MALDEN — Some 22,000 pills, including several thousand which would have caused instant death if taken by a normal person, were recovered early Wednesday after Dunklin County Deputy Sheriff Bob McDonald and members of the Malden police department arrested two area men for the burglary of the Dr. S. W. Gaston Clinic early Tuesday morning.

Deputy McDonald and Officer Carroll McGowen of the Malden department, assisted by other Malden policemen, arrested Stanley Daniel Latham, 23, an ex-convict, and Terry William Case, 26, both of Malden, for the burglary. Both men were reportedly under the influence of drugs at the time of their arrests at 9 p.m. Tuesday authorities said.

The 28 bottles of stolen pills, which included such items as medicines for heart patients, were found buried in a gravel pit about five miles west of Malden at 3:10 a.m. Wednesday. Officers were led to the scene after questioning the suspects, who reportedly were planning to store the drugs until they could be sold on the black market.

Deputy McDonald said the black market price could be as much as 50 cents a pill, or in excess of $10,000 for the entire supply.

McDonald worked on the case with Malden Police Chief Woody McMillan from 8:30 a.m. Tuesday until 9 a.m. Wednesday when his report was filed with the prosecuting attorney for state charges.

McDonald said medical authorities had advised them that 3,500 of the pills, including Penaerythritol Tetranitrate and Digitoxin U.S.P., would have probably caused instant death to any normal person taking them since those drugs are used only for heart patients to stimulate the heart.

Other pills taken were identified as Ostrakal, Teracycline Hydrochloride, Buffadyne, Meprobamate, Spasmolin, Ammonium, Butabarbital, Sulfa Triple, Volaxin, Coryztime, A. P.C., Dilantin Sodium, P.A.C., Alised, Zypac, Bicalpho, Glucoron, Antacid, Conjugated Estrogens, Butabarbital Sodium, and Phenobarbital.

The burglary was discovered early Tuesday. Entry was gained by using a pair of vice grips on the outside handle of the door and twisting it open, McDonald said. Also taken in the theft were $90 in cash and a check-writer.

BENTON — Fourteen cases were heard Wednesday by Judge Lloyd Briggs during Magistrate Court.

Charges against Wayne Lee Harris of Sikeston were continued until July 17. Harris is charged with escaping custody on June 18 and breaking into Lambert's Cafe in Sikeston on June 12 and stealing personal property.

Mrs. Josie Turner of Oran received a five- year suspended jail sentence and was fined $100 after she pleaded guilty to a charge of not having a valid operator license.

Fined for speeding were:

James Johnson of East Prairie, $26; Ernest Edward Story of Charleston, $13; Patrick Dean Singleton of Scott City, $15; James Monroe Urhahn of Benton, $15; James Earl Winifield, Jr. of Oran, $15; Mirly Hahs of Cape Girardeau, $5.

Fined for other traffic violations were:

Betty Jewell Huckabee of Cape Girardeau, driving without a license, $5; Richard Earl Eskew of Vanduser, no chauffer's license, $30; Raymond C. Long of St. Louis, improper registration and failure to display certificate of inspection, $45; Bernard Grass of Bell City, improper registration, $5; Richard Lee Johns of Oran, inadequate mufflers, $10;

After pleading guilty to a non-support charge, Daniel Franklin Ross of Chaffee was ordered to pay $7.50 per child per week for support.

St. Louis man arrested

Clay Fay Graham of St. Louis was arrested Thursday night on seven counts of speeding, one count of careless and imprudent driving and one count of failure to appear in court.

Police said the alleged speeding incidents occurred about three weeks ago when Graham was chased by police, wrecked his truck and fled on foot.

Police searched for him, but didn't find him until Thursday night when officer Joe Sebourn found him at the King Arthur Lounge in the Kingsway Plaza Mall.

Other arrests include Billy Jay Nance, 1607 E. Kathleen Ave., speeding and no driver's license; Carl Edward Holifield, 329 Anderson St., public intoxication; Ancell Ceral Gross, 815 Hunter St., public intoxication; Bobby Gene McColloch Jr. of Portageville Route Two, indecent exposure.

Richard Jimmy Johnson, 810 Hunter St., assault and battery; John Walker Hunt and Miles Robert Hunt Oran Route One, public intoxication.

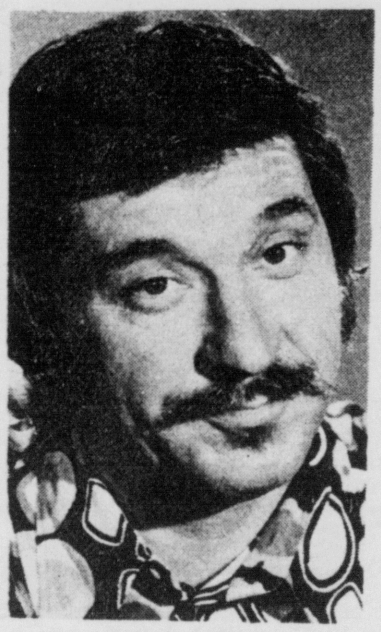
'DOC' SEVERINSEN'S 'TODAY'S CHILDREN' AND THE 'NOW GENERATION BRASS'



"Doc" Severinsen and his "Now Generation Brass," featuring hos singing and dancing troupe, "Today's Children," will headline the Paducah - McCracken County Bicentennial Celebration, Saturday, July 6, at 9:00 PM at the Tillman Football Stadium in Paducah, Kentucky.

"Doc," who is known to millions from his nightly appearances on Johnny Carson's "The Tonight Show," is also recognized as one of the foremost trumpet players and musicians in the world. He is also known as a pretty flambouant dresser, and easly has one of the largest and flashiest wardrobes ever assembled.

"Doc" Severinsen and "Today's Children" with the "Now Generation Brass" have become one of the most sought- after headline shows in the country. "Doc," known in every nook and cranny and hamlet in these United States, from his nightly appearances on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show," developed this "presentation" when he realized some years ago that to simply get a group together to play a Las Vegas club, or some other club around the country, would not provide the showcase he knew was necessary to achieve stardom.

True, he was accepted in the business as one of the finest musicians around, but that wasn't enough. He needed more. He realized that, after an appearance at a Las Vegas lounge. His fronting a hot sextet didn't have the production and scope needed to set the world on fire.

It was then he decided to develop a concept - a complete presentation. He thought of the great Cab Calloway and the late phenomenal Paul Whiteman. He realized success required putting a complete musical show together - beginning, middle and end.

His opportunity to put his ideas to the test came when he was booked into the Persian Room of New York's Plaza Hotel. He gathered eight of the best young voices he could find - a group of eleven top musicians, arrangements and a theme, and opened in the Persian Room as "Doc" Severinsen with "Today's Children" and the "Now Generation Brass." The result was the hit of the season — and has gone on to appear at major clubs, colleges, concerts and fairs across the country.

"Today's Children" is a refreshing assortment of great young talent, whose background includes modeling nursing, choreography, linguistics, poetry, auto racing, needlepoint, and 22 years as the boss's daughter.

Nancy Severinsen, the oldest of "Doc's own brood of five, auditioned for "Today's Children" just like everyone else, because "Doc" didn't want nepotism in the group, but she was so good they couldn't turn her down. Corliss Taylor is a graduate nurse, Todd Shelton was a paramedic, Jim Dahlman is working on his Master's Degree, Tanya Buche was one of Dean Martin's "Golddiggers," Sheila Crews, an opera buff, has appeared in "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "Die Fleidermaus," Rick Buche was one of the Nabors Kids on the Jim Nabors Show, and Mike rouch has a B.A. in psychology. All of "Today's Children" have something special to offer, and it comes together in an exciting blend of voices.

The "Now Generation Brass" is made up of some of the best sidemen living today. Fred Stites, percussionist, and Ross Tompkins, keyboard, fly their own planes, Peter Woodford, British guitarist, doubles in photography, Dick Spencer, saxophone, loves sports cars, Lew Tabackin, tenor sax and flute, came from Bobby Rosengarden's ABC Orchestra to "Doc"'s NBC Orchestra, and, with the possible exception of trumpeter Snooky Young, the group humorist, who credits his ability to the "school of hard knocks;" almost all hold college degrees in music, several having Master's Degrees. Bruce Paulson, trombone, got his Bachelor's Degree in anthropology, but is a graduate of Glen Miller's and Buddy Rich's orchestras. McDowell Kenley, bass trombone and tuba, holds three degrees in music, including a Master's at N.Y.U. Ed Shaughnessy, who played with Bennie Goodman, Count Basie and the great Duke Ellington during the big band era, though self- taught, lectures throughout the country at colleges, has authored three books and writes a regular column for Downbeat Magazine. Even the audio engineer, Patricia Stites, has a Bachelor's Degree from North Texas State University where she was a piano major.

NBC WEDNESDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES: -- "World Premiere: The Questor Tapes" -- Robert Foxworth stars as Questor, an android activated in a laboratory and programmed to find its missing creator. (Color; repeat)

Robert Foxworth stars as Questor, an android (an ambulatory computer capable of all human functions), in "The Questor Tapes," a World Premiere film to be colorcast on "NBC Wednesday Night at the Movies" July 10 (8-10 p.m. CDT) on the NBC Television Network.

Scientists from five nations are assembled in a laboratory at Caltech in Pasadena, Calif., to program Questor, created by Dr. Emile Vaslovik, a missing Nobel Prize- winning scientist. Micro- electronics engineer Jerry Robinson protests their decision to ignore Vaslovik's tape and use university programming. The scientists refuse his request and proceed with their plan. When that apparently fails to activate Questor, they have no choice but to use Vaslovik's tape. Although the android temporarily emits a brain wave, it soon falls silent and the scientists retire for the night. Alone in the laboratory, Questor activates itself and escapes. Programmed to find its creator of face nuclear self-destruction, Questor selects Jerry Robinson to help him with his mission.

The Universal production was directed by Richard A.Colla. Gene Roddenberry and Gene L. Coon wrote the screenplay from a story by Roddenberry.

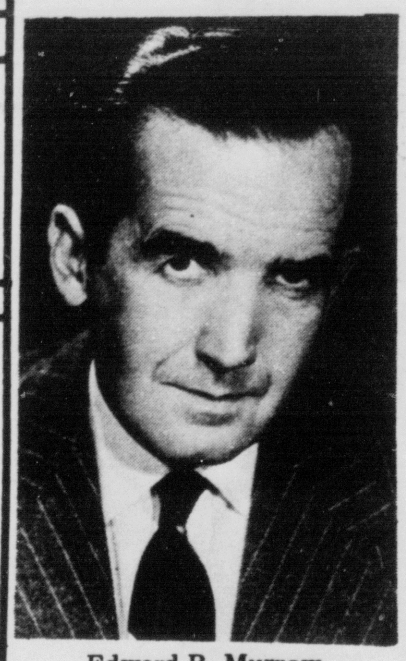
CBS NEWS RETROSPECTIVE



Edward R. Murrow

PROGRAM NOTES
CBS NEW RETROSPECTIVE
Sundays, July 7 through September 29, 1974
6:00 - 7:00 PM

CBS NEWS RETROSPECTIVE, a unique 12- week series of some of the outstanding CBS News documentaries of past years, will be seen on the CBS Television Network starting July 7 at 6 PM, CNYT. CBS News Correspondent John Hart, as he did last year, will act as the host for the series. Among the newsmen who are reporting in this summer's selections are Edward R. Morrow, Walter Cronkite, Robert Trout, Eric Sevareid and Charles Kuralt.

"In the first 'CBS News Retrospective' series last year, we necessarily had to limit ourselves to just 12 of the many excellent documentaries produced by CBS News in the 1950's and 1960's," says Bill Leonard, CBS News Senior Vice President and Director of Public Affairs Broadcasting. "There were many more than those which warranted rebroadcasting, of course, and since the public response was so great, we've selected another 12 which a whole new generation of viewers will get to see for the first time. We're very proud of these trail- blazing broadcasts. Moreover, they remain relevant."

PLAYBOY IMAGE IS OVER FOR HAMILTON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Quick, now. What image pops into your head when you hear the name George Hamilton?

If you're like most people, you immediately think of a playboy. Handsome, suave, debonair. The kind of guy most men would like to be at least one weekend in their lives.

For poor George, that image is his problem. It was an OK image for a while but he thinks he's grown up now and has outgrown it. A couple of things have happened to help change the impression although it still clings to him like a particurly nasty leach.

The first thing that happened was that George made and starred in "Evel Knievel," a rousing action film about the motorcycle thrill man. He says that film brought him a whole new crop of fans.

"The kids are the ones who recognize me now," he says. "They loved that picture."

The other event that helped carve a new George Hamilton was his marriage to Alana Collins. Nothing can cool a playboy image faster than a marriage.

George says that becoming a husband has brought him something most newlywed guys claim they have lost — freedom. This peculiar inverse effect is worth examining.

"When I was a man- about- town," he says, "that whole dating thing tied me down. Every night, I'd have to go out, pick up my date, go somewhere, take her home. God help me if I stayed over a while — I wouldn't get home until two or three in the morning, with that cement feeling.

"Now I have freedom. I can stay home with Alana. I don't have to go out. I love being married."

Goerge and Alana are expecting their first child, due sometime in September.

"Boy or girl," George says, "Its name will be Ashley Stevens Hamilton. I really don't care what it is, but I tell Alana I want a girl because I think that's what she wants to hear."
